RAYNER'S ELOQUENT PLEA IN BEHALF OF SCHLEY

His Oratory Moved the Court as Well as the Spectators--Remarkable Scene Followed the Peroration.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 6. The climax of the Schley court of inquiry came this afternoon when Mr. Rayner, the chief counsel for Admiral Schley, concluded a brilliant argument of over three hours with a peroration so eloquent and impassioned that all within the sound of his voice were profoundly touched. This remarkable trial, he said, sought to condemn the man who brought to a successful termination as great a naval triumph as was ever won. In vivid colors he painted the picture of the Brooklyn, with Commodore Schley on her bridge fighting the entire Spanish fleet until the Oregon appeared out of the smoke. The thunderous Brooklyn, music for the ears of his countrymen, aroused Admiral Schley's envious foes. He pictured the victorious sailor suffering as few have suffered for three long years while the fires of persecution leaped around him, and now awaiting the hour of his vindication in the verdict of the court.

"And when it comes," he concluded, "the man, from the high and exalted position that he occupies look down upon his traducers and maligners and with exultant pride exclaim:

"'I care not for the venomous gossip of clubs, drawing rooms and cliques and the poisoned shafts of envy and malice. I await under the guidance of Divine Providence the verdict of posterity.'"

The scene in the court room as he finished with those words was thrilling. The attendance had been large all day and at the morning session a lady had fainted from excitement. When Mr. Rayner began his eulogy of Admiral Schley, those in the audience, many of whom were ladies, leaned forward in their seats. The spell of his oratory was over them and when he described the admiral's gallant deeds, and the long persecution to which he had been subjected, many of them broke down and wept. The members of the court displayed evidence of emotion, and Admiral Schley himself was plainly moved. He sat leaning back, with his hands behind his head. His chin twitched, and as his counsel said he could afford to await the verdict of posterity, two big tears rolled down his cheeks. He moved uneasily to conceal his emotion and, under the pretense of adjusting his glasses, brushed the tears aside. For fully 30 seconds after Mr Rayner closed there was not a sound. Then the tension broke in a loud burst of applause.

Admiral Dewey, after about a half minute, arose to remind the spectators that such a demonstration was out of place. A moment afterward the court adjourned, the judge advocate pleading that he could not well go on today. Then another remarkable thing happened. As soon as the gavel fell the entire audience surged forward to shake the hands of Admiral Schley and Mr. Rayner. But the oncoming spectators fell back a moment as they saw Admiral Dewey and his two assistants move around the table, as if by a common impulse, and congratulate Admiral Schley and his counsel. Even Captain Lemly, the judge advocate, came forward to join in the congratulations. Then the public had its innings, and for 15 minutes after the court adjourned Admiral Schley and Mr. Rayner were kept busy shaking hands.

Mr. Rayner's argument today consumed the whole day of the court, except for half an hour at the opening which Captain Parker, his associate counsel, occupied in concluding. Mr. Rayner took up the specifications one by one, reserving those relating to the retrograde movement until the last. So far as he was able to do so he used the testimony of the department's witnesses to prove his contentions. With regard to the retrograde movement he discussed with greater seriousness than the other specifications, he adduced in justification not only all of Admiral Schley's reasons for believing the Spanish fleet was not in Santiago, but argued that every o[illegible] charged with the responsibility [illegible] and necessarily must be cl[illegible] discretion in carrying out th[illegible] He displayed good temper [illegible]ng to the testimony of most of th[illegible] officers, especially the ranking officers who seemed to contradict his client, giving them in each case credit for honesty of purpose. But with a few he dealt unsparingly. Wood, Potts and Bristol he held up to ridicule.

Captain Lemly will begin the closing argument tomorrow afternoon, as the court will not hold a session tomorrow morning.

Mr. Rayner began his argument at 10:[illegible] a. m. He paid a compliment to Judge Advocate Lemly and his assistant, Mr. Hanna, for the "most judicial impartiality" with which they have managed this case."

Mr. Rayner made a plea for the consideration of questions from what was in that time Commodore Schley's point of view.

"Let us," he said, "put ourselves in his place and see what the circumstances were. We all know what it would have been wise to do."

Discussing dispatch No. 7, known as the "Dear Schley" letter, Mr. Rayner contended that the order conveyed in that message made it incumbent upon Commodore Schley to remain at Cienfuegos. He declared that this was the key to the whole case and that it did not admit of any other construction than that Commodore Schley should remain at Cienfuegos. In support of this contention he read the department's orders to Admiral Sampson. He then took up the McCalla memorandum, the message delivered by the Eagle to Commodore Schley and the testimony of Lieutenant Hood, and declared that Admiral Schley was the victim of an unfortunate combination of circumstances that left him in total darkness as to the location of the Spanish fleet.

Concerning the question of coaling at sea, Mr. Rayner read the testimony of several witnesses to prove the great difficulties such a task involved. He said that all they wanted to prove was that Admiral Schley was honest when he informed the department of his increased anxiety regarding the coal supply and that he acted according to the dictates of his own conscience. He was prepared to prove that one ship could not have followed the Spaniards six hours and have had enough coal left to return to Key West.

Coming to the reconnoissance of May 31, Mr. Rayner contended that it had been Commodore Schley's chief intention to develop the Spanish land batteries, and in this, he said, he had been eminently successful. He claimed that the man who was in command at such a time should be given great discretion, for he must necessarily know more of the situation than the gentlemen who make out battle plans at home on charts, with compass and lead pencils, and direct other people thousands of miles away how to fight a battle.

Mr. Rayner referred sarcastically to the testimony of Lieutenant Hodgson among other things:

"His vision was a divine inspiration. Sextants and readmeters, compass bearings, government measurements and hydrographic plats were all dim and obscure in comparison with the miraculous power of his unaided vision which lit up and illuminated the entire harbors of Cienfuegos and Santiago, with the unerring precision of the morning sunbeams.

"Government experts with mathematical accuracy had measured the heights of Morro castle and Socapa battery, but down they went one hundred feet when they encountered Bristol's miraculous eye."

Mr. Rayner next came to the consideration of Admiral Sampson's interview with the commander of the flying squadron, especially referring to Admiral Schley's testimony relative to the directions of Admiral Sampson, with reference to attacks on land batteries. He also referred to Captain Chadwick's testimony in this connection and said that Admiral Schley's statement being affirmative, was much more entitled to credence than was Captain Chadwick's, which was negative. He said that Captain Chadwick had given testimony as to only one statement that was made in that interview, which should have been uttered in 30 seconds, while Chadwick himself had admitted that the interview lasted nearly 25 minutes and Admiral Schley had placed the time at three-quarters of an hour.

Mr. Rayner said he thought that Captain Chadwick had been forgetful, but that no charge could be made against him on that score. Admiral Schley, however, who had given positive testimony, would be guilty of perjury if his statement was not true.

"They must have talked about something," he said, "and what would they be more likely to have discussed than the guns on the south coast of Cuba, whither Commodore Schley was then bound?"

Reverting to the blockade of Cienfuegos, Mr. Rayner said Captain McCalla had admitted on the stand that he himself had disobeyed orders in not leaving the Eagle off that port when he left for Key West. He did not, he said, mean to criticise Captain McCalla, but if he was not to be censured for disobedience of orders, "why," he asked, should Admiral Schley be?

After luncheon Mr. Rayner discussed the ninth specification, which dealt with the loop of the Brooklyn on July 3, and the possibility of colliding with the Texas.

Mr. Rayner said he stood upon the testimony of Captain Cook, who, all things taken together, had the best opportunity to give all the information about the loop. What might have happened had the Brooklyn turned to port was purely a matter of conjecture. The turn in the other direction was completely successful. It was intimated that the turn to the south would have been to get away from the enemy, yet it was an indisputable fact that the turn had brought the Brooklyn closer to the Spanish fleet, and that she received 20 of the 42 shots which struck the American ships. Captain Cook's testimony, he said, illumined this manoeuver and he planted himself upon this testimony.

Mr. Rayner then discussed the testimony of Hoiner and Hodgson, and in this connection ridiculed the chart prepared by the navigators of the ships in the battle.

Mr. Rayner then took up specification No. 10, concerning the Hodgson controversy. He said he would not undertake the task of extricating Lieutenant Commander Hodgson from his predicament. He read portions of Hodgson's testimony, and again fell back upon Captain Cook's testimony as decisive of the point at issue. Captain Cook had said, Mr. Rayner stated, that the danger of collision had never entered his head. Referring to this testimony, he said:

"You cannot impeach him. If I had my way I must say I think I would have rested this case when Captain Cook's testimony was done. I did not do so because the admiral wanted to take the stand in his own vindication."

No one, he said, had intended to attack Hodgson, but the entire controversy was Hodgson's own fault.

"There has been too much magazine discussion and too much gossip," he said. "Imagine such a conversation between the commanding officer of a great fleet and a subordinate officer at such a time."

"Even if Commodore Schley had said 'D—n the Texas,'" continued Mr. Rayner, "it would not have been such a serious matter as it could not have been meant seriously. Down in Anne Arundel county, Maryland, they use such language in expiation—saying 'D—n you, how are you this morning?'"

But the trouble was, he said, that the public did not have the proper conception of the occurrence as reported, but upon the reported colloquy, he said, but not until after it had done him great injury.

Mr. Rayner then took up the first specification—Admiral Schley's conduct during the campaign.

"Now we come to Mr. Woods and Mr. Potts," he began. "Mr. Potts and Mr. Woods; Mr. Woods and Mr. Potts." (Laughter in the court.)

After reading the testimony of several officers as to the splendid bearing of Admiral Schley, Mr. Rayner read the testimony of Mr. Potts to the effect that the admiral appeared nervous, that he got up and sat down.

Mr. Rayner proceeded to ridicule Mr. Potts as that precocious child of the kindergarten, who confessed that he was always scared when he was in battle, but who, unfortunately, was never engaged in any battle sufficient enough even to arouse his timidity."

At this point Captain Lemly protested against Mr. Rayner's strictures of Lieutenant Commander Potts.

"Counsel is traducing the reputation of an officer of ability and high standing," said Captain Lemly.

Mr. Rayner retorted:

"You have no right to traduce the reputation of Admiral Schley."

Captain Lemly, I do not think that counsel should say this is an attempt to traduce Admiral Schley. I am not here because I wanted to be, but because it is my duty. I was ordered to come and I think it is unjust and it shows how utterly ineffable he is in his statements.

Mr. Rayner—I do not think the court will permit this. You must not make a statement of that sort. It will not permit it.

Admiral Dewey. No.

Mr. Rayner. He is not only uncivilable, but very offensive.

Captain Lemly. Counsel gets up and says we are in the discharge of a most painful duty, trying to traduce Admiral Schley.

Mr. Rayner. I have borne willing testimony to the impartiality with which he has tried his case and the delicate position he occupies. But I do ask my brother not to get up and contradict me and say that I am culpable when I read the testimony that sustains me. I appreciate the position he is in. He has filled that position as well and faithfully as it could possibly be filled by any one. I have not said a word in criticism of his conduct. It is only when he refers to my traducing an officer that I have the same right to refer to his traducing Admiral Schley.

Admiral Dewey—The court, of course, will read all that testimony that has been given. We will be governed by the testimony. We know exactly what Lieutenant Commander Potts said. He said he was scared, but counsel did enlarge a little on it.

The difficulty was then smoothed over.

Mr. Rayner took up the other specifications and reviewed the testimony of the various witnesses against Admiral Schley. Mr. Rayner closed as follows:

"I now have briefly presented this case as it appears to me in its general outline. Such a trial as this has never, to my knowledge, taken place in the history of the world. It seemed to my mind that this case had hardly opened with the testimony of Captain Higginson when it commenced to totter and from day to day its visionary fabric dissolved from view. When Captain Cook, their last witness, was put upon the stand the entire structure collapsed, and now, when the witnesses from our own ships and the gallant captain and crew of the Oregon and Admiral Schley have narrated their unvarnished tale, the whole tenement with all of its compartments, from its foundation to its turret has disintegrated and lies here like a mass of blackened ruins.

"It has taken three years to reveal the truth. There is not a single word that has fallen from the tongue of a single witness, friend or foe, that casts the shadow of a reflection upon the honored name of the hero of Santiago. He has never claimed the glory of that day. No word to this effect has ever gone forth from him to the American people. The valiant Cook, the heroic Clark, the lamented Phillip, the intrepid and undaunted Wainwright and all the other captains, and every man at every gun and every soul on board of every ship, are equal participants with Admiral Schley in the honor wrought upon that immortal day. We cannot strike down his figure standing upon the bridge of the Brooklyn. There he stands, his ship almost alone and receiving the entire fire of the Spanish fleet until the Oregon, as if upon the wings of lightning, sped into the thickness of this mortal carnage.

"God bless the Oregon," was the cheer that rang from deck to deck and on they went, twin brothers of the chase until the ice gun was fired from the Cristobal Colon and the despotic colors of Spain were swept from the face of her ancient possessions. 'Well done; congratulate you on the victory,' was the streamer that was bent from the halyard of the Brooklyn, and from that day to this no man has ever heard from Admiral Schley the slightest whisper or intimation that he usurped the glory of that imperishable hour. The thunders of the Brooklyn as she trebled on the waves have been discordant music to the ears of envious foes, but they have pierced with a ringing memory the ears of his countrymen and struck a responsive chord at the fireside of every American home. And what is more—than all which has been revealed in this case—as matchless as is his courage and as unsullied as is his honor, is his beautiful character and the generous spirit that animates his soul and the forgiving heart that beats within his bosom. Yes, we cannot strike him down. Erect he stands as the McGregor when he stepped on his native heather, and his eye was on the peak, Ben Lomond. His country does not want to strike him down nor cast a blur on the pure escutcheon of his honored name.

"For three long years he has suffered and now, thank God, the hour of his vindication has come. With composure, with resignation, with supreme and unfaltering fortitude, he awaits the judgment of this illustrious tribunal, and when that deliverance comes he can, from the high and exalted position that he occupies, look down upon his traducers and malighers and with exultant pride exclaim:

"'I care not for the venomous gossip of clubs and drawing rooms and cliques and cabals and the poisoned shafts of envy and of malice. I await, under the guidance of divine Providence, the verdict of posterity.'"

Mr. Rayner closed at 3:20 o'clock, having spoken about three hours. The large audience broke into applause when he concluded and the members of the court as well as others congratulated him upon his speech. Admiral Schley was visibly affected by the concluding remarks and attending scenes.

The court then adjourned until 2 p. m. tomorrow, when Captain Lemly will deliver the closing argument for the government.

ELECTION RETURNS

Complete Figures From the Various States in General Only Add to the Republican Pluralities.

By Associated Press.

Columbus, O., Nov. 6. With almost complete returns in tonight, it is noted that the Republican plurality beats all records in what has become known as the quadrennial "off year," and with two exceptions the records of other years. In the "off years," or those following a presidential election, the Democrats have carried Ohio, the exceptions being in 1881, after the death of Garfield, and in 1885 and 1893, after the Cleveland elections. In two of those three exceptional years the president was a Democrat, and those were considered "off years" for the Democrats. With the single exception of Hoadley, in 1882, the Democrats never elected a governor of Ohio in any other than an "off year" since the Republican party was organized, and then they won on a local issue of liquor taxation.

Wherever local issues were paramount this year the Republicans sustained losses, notably at Columbus, on account of local option, and at Cleveland on account of Mayor Johnson's agitation of "taxation inequalities." Where no such conditions were confronted, the Republicans made gains. They carried some Democratic counties that never before were represented by Republicans.

The state was carried on national issues involved in the support of President Roosevelt and the indorsement of Senator Foraker for re-election. In interviews, Senator Hanna, Governor Nash and Chairman Dick of the Republican side and Colonel Kilbourne, Chairman Daugherty and Secretary Gilliam of the Democratic side agree that the result was due to the trend of sentiment in national affairs. None of these six leaders or others in interviews on the result refers to the silver question as a factor in the contest.

Chairman Daugherty added with emphasis:

"I believe the Republican success is due to the assassination of McKinley and the prevailing prosperity."

Secretary Gilliam said:

"The sympathy aroused by McKinley's death just before election removed that antagonism which always exists among the opposition to the administration. Undoubtedly we were greatly handicapped by our inability to go upon the stump and criticise the policies of the administration."

By Associated Press.

Late tonight Chairman Dick, of the Republican state committee, had the returns from 86 counties in Ohio, with only two missing, and the two missing counties were estimated on from the newspaper reports with the following results:

Sixty-two counties have Republican pluralities aggregating 90,540. Twenty-six counties have Democratic pluralities aggregating 22,179, making the plurality of Nash over Kilbourne for governor, 67,661, and approximating 80,000 plurality for other candidates on the Republican state ticket. The total vote will not exceed 900,000 but it will not be known exactly till the vote is counted officially. The plurality for Governor Nash exceeds that of two years ago, when he was elected by 49,023, and the average plurality of the candidates on the Republican state ticket greatly exceeds that for president last year when McKinley and Roosevelt had a plurality in Ohio of 69,030. The Republicans elected 68 representatives and the Democrats 42. The state senate stands 21 Republicans and 12 Democrats. The Republican majority on joint ballot for United States senator is 34. The official count will not change these figures on the complexion of the legislature.

MARYLAND'S REPUBLICAN HOUSE OF DELEGATES

By Associated Press.

Baltimore, Nov. 6. Returns received in this city up to midnight and including every county in the state, partly official and partly estimated, indicate a result in the legislative contest which is almost without parallel in Maryland. The most careful estimates and calculations give the Democrats 46 delegates and seven newly elected senators, which combined with the 10 who hold over in the senate, assures the friends of Mr. Gorman a total of 63 on joint ballot. The Republicans, it appears, have elected 49 delegates and six senators, which, added to their three hold-over senators, gives them a total of 58 on joint ballot. These figures indicate that the Republicans will be able to organize the house of delegates.

The situation in Baltimore city is a peculiar one, in that the returns from the Second legislative district are in such an incomplete state as to make the result there uncertain as to two legislative candidates. The election judges in two precincts became involved last night in a controversy over the rejection of several ballots and finally locked the ballots and the poll books in the ballot box and turned them over to the supervisors of election, with the statement that they declined to sign the returns.

One of the Democratic candidates lacks but 27 votes of election and another needs but 103. The Republicans seem inclined to concede the election of the first mentioned when the returns are in from the two missing precincts, but assert that the other will be beaten. In the table of members, therefore, but one Democrat in Baltimore city is put down as probably elected, while the Republicans are given 16. The ballots will not be counted until noon tomorrow, until which time nothing definite can be known.

One of the surprises of the day was the close vote in Allegheny county, heretofore safely Republican by majorities ranging from 1,200 to 2,000. The Democrats have elected their senator and one representative in that county and the result as to the remaining four delegates is close.

St. Mary's county, which has been considered doubtful, has gone solidly Democrat, and Washington Wilkins, one of the picturesque figures in the Republican side in the senate, is relegated to private life.

PENNSYLVANIA

By Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6. Practically complete returns from the state give Harris, Rep., for state treasurer, 52,360 plurality, and Potter, Rep., for supreme court judge, 47,939 plurality. The official totals from the few counties in which the vote is incomplete tonight will not materially alter the foregoing pluralities.

A number of counties have not yet completed the returns of the vote on the proposed constitutional amendments providing for changes in the ballot law, but the figures received from two-thirds of the state indicate that the amendments carried by a big majority although the aggregate vote on this question fell far below that cast for the state candidates. The total vote cast last year was 1,173,210. Two years ago the total was 790,501.

The total vote cast in the state this year will approximate 650,000.

RHODE ISLAND

By Associated Press.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 6. Complete returns from the 139 districts in the state give Gregory, Rep., for governor, 26,242; Garvin, Dem., 19,853; Gregory's plurality 6,389, as against 8,509 last year.

In the senate the Republicans have elected 31 members and the Democrats seven and in the house the proportion is 51 Republicans to four Democrats.

MASSACHUSETTS

By Associated Press.

Boston, Nov. 6. Revised and corrected returns from the entire state of Massachusetts shows that Governor Crane has a plurality of 70,116 votes. Revised returns from the legislature show that the political complexion will be as follows: Senate 38 Republicans, 7 Democrats; house, 165 Republicans, 83 Democrats; two Social Democrats. This is a gain of two Republican senators and a loss of 15 Republican representatives.

NEBRASKA

By Associated Press.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 6. Complete and nearly complete returns from over a third of the counties in Nebraska serve to increase the pluralities for the Republican state ticket. If the ratio of gain is maintained Sedgwick, Rep., candidate for supreme judge, will have a plurality of 12,000. Chairman Lindsay of the Republican state committee claims it will not be less than 7,000 and this is conservative. Chairman De France of the Fusion committee concedes the election of Sedgwick by 3,000 to 5,000.

LYCEUM THEATER AT ATLANTA DESTROYED

By Associated Press.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 6. The Lyceum theater, a vaudeville house, was destroyed by fire this afternoon. A performance was being given when the fire broke out, but the audience was dismissed in time to prevent a panic. The fire was preceded by an accident which caused some uneasiness in the theater. An immense electric sign extending across Edgewood avenue in front of the house, fell just as the performance began, throwing two electricians to the ground and injuring one of them, Roy Danner. The wires became crossed and burned out a feed box at the entrance to the theater. The smoke found its way into the building and caused much excitement in the audience. Some of those inside attempted to leave but were immediately stopped and urged to remain seated and the performance proceeded. One hour later the flames appeared in the roof of the theater and the management dismissed the audience, their exit being expedited by the ushers. In about an hour the theater was in ruins.

Fred Jones, a fireman, was badly burned. Financial loss, $5,000.

MALLEY CHALLENGES ANY MIDDLEWEIGHT

W. J. Malley, a middleweight boxer who has recently come to this city, wishes to issue a public challenge to any and all middleweight boxers in Colorado.

Mr. Maley is a member of the Typographical union of this city and is engaged at his profession here. He has recently come here from Texas, where he has considerable reputation as an athlete and particularly in ring work.

Mr. Malley weighs 165 pounds when in form. He authorizes the Gazette sporting man to issue a public challenge to all boxers of the middleweight class.

County Judge Orr will take oath of office on November 15.

OTHERS FOLLOW FAST BUT EL PASO SETS THE PACE

In the Shifting of Colorado Counties From Fusion to Republicanism El Paso Has Set a High Mark--Some Echoes of the Campaign.

El Paso county does not intend to allow any other county in Colorado to carry off the honors as the banner Republican county of the state.

If the election of Tuesday is any indication of the tendency of the people in Colorado, "all the king's horses and all the king's men" cannot keep the state out of the Republican column when she has another chance to get in. The reports from all sections of Colorado show unmistakable Republican gains.

El Paso county, however, is still as it has for years been, the banner Republican county of Colorado. Majorities are piling up there as never before and the general opinion among the people is that unless there are departures from the known custom of Republican officials everywhere, which is to be honest and efficient in all matters, it will be no easy matter for the Democratic party to make up a ticket in the future. It was believed by Republicans generally that the whole ticket would be elected on Tuesday. But they were not looking for the majorities that came. It was regarded as natural that known Republican precincts should return Republican majorities, and it was realized by those who were watching the returns closely that majorities were larger than they had ever before been. When the supposed Democratic precincts began turning in, however, and it was realized that these were Democratic precincts returning Republican majorities, then it became apparent that there were no Democratic precincts anywhere and the Republican workers began to feel certain of what they had hoped before that the whole ticket was safe.

Average majorities for those members of the Republican ticket against whom there was no strong personal fight, range in the neighborhood of 2,500. These figures are derived from the showing made by Messrs. Reed, Pollen and Woodside, who were not strongly affected by personal preferences on the part of the voters or by anything else except normal causes and influences. The average majority of these candidates may be regarded as the normal Republican majority.

In view of this fact there are Democrats in the city who feel that it will be a good many years before Republican control of the affairs of El Paso county is interrupted. Certain strong Democratic workers were heard yesterday to say that they were through working in opposition to the Republican party in this county because there was no satisfaction in it. The people seem to want the Republicans in charge of things and the people have the casting vote.

There are still a few precincts to be heard from but it is altogether probable that nothing further can be known until the completion of the official canvass.

The accompanying table shows in addition to the returns given yesterday, which were, by the way, the most complete returns on El Paso county ever published on the morning following election day, that the rule is the same throughout the county. The different precincts have either swung solidly and unquestionably into the Republican column or they show striking tendencies toward doing so and are needing only one more chance to make the political complexion of the county solid. This table includes in addition to what was published yesterday the returns from Table Rock, Husted, Edgerton and Colorado Springs precinct No. 44, and some majorities from Buttes. Owing to the heavy vote and the universal scratching in precinct 44, the count there was not completed until nearly 7 o'clock yesterday morning. What the scratching was is indicated by the general result. Judge Orr having a majority there of 212 and Leyden, the only Democratic candidate to carry the precinct, having 29 votes more than were secured by Mr. Strachan.

But "the blow that killed father" was that Colorado City had turned down Don Goddard and Leyden.

Colorado City was the greatest election surprise to the Democrats. The Republicans of that city stated all along that they would carry the city but even they were surprised at the majorities that were rolled up.

Not a precinct in the city gave a Democratic majority. Not a candidate on the Republican ticket failed to carry every precinct. Layden made the best race for the Democrats over there but he was badly beaten except in one precinct, No. 1, where he and Strachan ran neck and neck up to the finish when Strachan pulled out with just one vote to the good. The vote in this precinct, the strongest Democratic precinct in the city two years ago, was Strachan 166, Layden 165. The Republicans had practically conceded this precinct to Goddard before the election but when the returns were counted Gilbert was found to have 52 majority. Precinct 6, over on the south side, across the creek, was also considered Democratic, but it fell in line and gave about 35 majority for the Republican ticket.

The Democrats gave up early and withdrew from sight while the Republicans celebrated the victory in a quiet way. Fire crackers were sent off to announce the glad tidings and then the happy party leaders and candidates congratulated each other and held a love feast until early the next morning.

Mayor Faulkner, who was running on the Republican ticket for justice of the peace, "ran like a scared rabbit," to use the words of a Democrat commenting on his race. In other words he led his ticket by a big majority. Charles H. Bates, his running mate and candidate for constable, was not far behind, and was elected by a very flattering vote. Bates was one of the most active Republican workers and to him and William Gessford, who was Republican manager over there, belongs great credit for the successful campaign made in what was considered to be the strongest Democratic stronghold. Two years ago the Democratic majority was 250; this year the Republican majorities ran from 150 to 200. Every candidate on the ticket carried every precinct.

Arensdale, which was also conceded to the Democrats before the election, went Republican and La Vergne was about a stand-off.

For the rest the people will have to wait for the official count.

NEWS NOTES FROM DENVER

Game Warden Harris Determined to Enforce the Law--Sinking Fund Levy.

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Denver, Nov. 6. Game Warden Harris has returned from Mesa county, where he has been driving out the Indians. He says that all the Utes are now back on their own reservation. He [illegible] for the violation of the game laws as have been made during the 12 years previous. In nearly all the cases, however, the prisoners have been discharged. From now on Mr. Harris expects to bring several suits against all offenders. This will give the right to appeal from all decisions that are against him. One of the first suits will be started against two prominent Denver men. The warden would not give their names, but says that during the current season two very prominent citizens of Denver were seen to have two does and three fawns in their wagon. The game commissioner will prosecute them. Mr. Harris says: "If the people of Colorado do not want the game laws enforced, let them take them off the statute books, for I expect to do my best to enforce them."

A forest fire could be seen raging in the mountains west of Denver all day today. The appearance would indicate that it was between here and Leadville. As evening came on the wind blew the smoke towards the city, completely hiding the mountains from view.

Governor Ormon today granted a requisition issued by the governor of Washington for S. A. Rhoads, who is wanted in that state for kidnaping his daughter from a divorced wife after the mother had been given custody of the child.

The Colorado Springs Trust company today filed papers with the secretary of state, stating that their entire capitalization of $250,000 had been paid.

Papers were filed with the secretary of state today changing the name of the Bonnie Nell Gold Mining company to the Bonnie Nell Cons. G. M. Co. The capital stock of the company was increased from $1,500,000 to $2,500,000.

Frederick Gunn is home from an extended trip to Alaska.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY IN MESA COUNTY

Special to the Gazette.

Grand Junction, Nov. 6. It was impossible to get the returns of Mesa county last night on account of delays in reports from the outlying precincts but the good news this morning was that the entire Republican ticket had been elected by majorities ranging from 400 to 600 for the office of sheriff. Hard work was done by both sides and the victory is simply appalling to fusion for this pronounced defeat has killed for all time Populism in Mesa county and from now on the Democrats will go it alone and fusion is no more. The ticket elected is as follows:

Clerk, John R. Mann; treasurer, Geo. J. D. Williams; assessor, Daniel Bradbury; superintendent of schools, Z. B. McClure; coroner, Dr. K. Hanson; judge, Walter S. Sullivan; surveyor, Edgar A. Fidler; commissioner, Will Pitman.

CRIPPLE CREEK NEWS NOTES

Official Count Will Be Necessary to Decide the Election of County Clerk.

Cripple Creek Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Cripple Creek, Nov. 6. An official count will be necessary to decide whether Dingman, Republican, or Mannix, Democrat, is elected to the office of county clerk. In any event it seems probable that the office will be contested, because of illegal voting. The unofficial results taken from the records in the county clerk's office show that the entire Democratic ticket with the exception of the local officers is elected. The result from the 61 precincts is as follows: For county clerk, Dingman, Rep., 4,912; Mannix, Dem., 4,976; Mannix' majority, 64. For treasurer, Blake, Rep., 4,558; McNeill, Dem., 5,055; McNeill's majority, 517. For sheriff, Crowder, Rep., 4,874; Robertson, Dem., 5,217; Robertson's majority, 343. For assessor, Lysight, Dem., 5,055; Thompson, Rep., 4,760; Lysight's majority, 295. For county commissioner, Kinney, Rep., 4,962; Lynch, Dem., 5,001; Lynch's majority, 139. For county judge, Frost, Dem., 5,599; Richmond, Rep., 4,830; Frost's majority, 769. For superintendent of schools, Johnson, Rep., 4,866; Satterlee, Dem., 5,165; Satterlee's majority, 299. For surveyor, Palmer, Rep., 4,448; Pollock, Dem., 5,106; Pollock's majority, 658. For coroner, Caldwell, Dem., 4,956; Stryker, Rep., 4,494; Caldwell's majority, 462. For justice of the peace, Cripple Creek, Bailey, Dem., 1,970; Harrington, Rep., 2,375; Harrington's majority, 463. For constable, Cripple Creek, Berry, Dem., 1,815; Woodworth, Rep., 2,486; Woodworth's majority, 668.

THE CRUMLEY CASE MAY GO TO THE JURY TODAY

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Nov. 6. The trial of Grant Crumley, charged with the murder of Sam Strong, is nearing an end in the district court. The defense finished its case at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, and the state put on but two witnesses in rebuttal. At 7:30 o'clock tonight Judge Seeds commenced the reading of his 33 instructions to the jury. The instructions are considered very fair to both sides. The defendant can be found guilty of murder in the first degree or murder in the second degree or voluntary manslaughter or involuntary manslaughter or not guilty. The reading of the instructions occupied fully one hour and at their end Attorney J. Maurice Finn made the first argument for the state. He was followed by Attorney D. A. Ferguson for the defense.

The features of the session today were the testimony of Drs. Torrance and McKown, who refuted the testimony of the state's professional witnesses, the testimony of Dr. Crane, who swore that there were no blood spots on the wall of the Newport saloon 20 minutes after the shooting, and the graphic description of the tragedy given by the defendant Grant Crumley. The case will probably reach the jury tomorrow evening.

The first witness called at 9 o'clock this morning was Pat Hickey, the day bartender at the Newport saloon. Hickey was the only witness of the tragedy who saw the affair from the south. His testimony was valuable to the defense for this reason: He testified that he saw Crumley shoot Strong over the cigar case just as Strong was rounding the pillar of the screen with his revolver in hand pointed toward Crumley.

Louis C. Platt, the night bartender at the Newport, was the next witness. He stated that he was behind the bar at the time of the shooting and could see both principals. He testified along the same lines as did the other witnesses for the defense and stated that Crumley shot over the cigar case.

R. W. Bludsoe, who was in the saloon at the time of the shooting, was the next witness and further strengthened the case for the defense.

A diagram showing the position of the various objects in the room was introduced. James F. Smith, the surveyor who made the map, testified relative to the distances upon it. Grant Crumley was on the stand for a few minutes to testify as to the accuracy of Mr. Smith's diagram.

Court adjourned at noon until 1:30 o'clock. At the afternoon session the attendance of women was very large, but the attendance tonight was the largest that has ever attended the case in the court room. Before proceeding this afternoon Judge Seeds announced from the bench that the funeral of the late Judge W. S. McElroy would be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Masonic temple and that the court would adjourn at noon tomorrow until after the funeral out of respect. Mr. Smith was then recalled to the stand and testified that the shooting could not have been done by a man standing one foot north of the screen. Nor could a man standing one foot north of the bar fire a shot and hit the blood spot without hitting the east pillar of the screen.

Dr. H. S. Torrance was then called and stated that he had examined the blood spot on the wall in the Newport saloon; that the blood spot could not have been produced unless there was an exit or hole in the back of Mr. Strong's skull. This contradicted the evidence of Dr. Magruder, the state's witness. Dr. T. D. McKown also testified to this effect.

Ex-Chief of Police J. W. Gathwright of Colorado Springs, who for 13 years was a police officer in that city, testified that the deceased was of a quarrelsome disposition when under the influence of liquor.

J. Grant Crumley, the defendant, was the next witness. With suppressed feeling and in a graphic manner he told the story of the trouble. He told the same story as did the other witnesses for him but added that before he shot he ordered Strong to wait and then, believing his life was in danger, he fired. The witness also told of Mr. Strong stopping payment upon a check for $2,500, and how he (Crumley) settled the matter for $200. The state then took the witness and attempted to prove that Mr. Strong lost the money at Crumley's roulette wheel. Mr. Crumley acknowledged that a portion of $1,500 was lost in his place. This was when Crumley was operating at the National hotel. There he cashed one check for $1,000 and another check for $1,500, for Mr. Strong. Joe Donahue, a newspaper man, testified as to Strong's bad reputation. He also testified that Crumley bore a good reputation in this community.

Attorney Crowell then asked that Mr. Prentice, the complaining witness, be put upon the stand, and acknowledged that he wished to impeach Prentice's testimony. The state would not allow Prentice to take the stand for the prosecution. Attorney Crowell then took Prentice as a witness for the defense, but the court held that Crowell was not allowed to impeach the testimony of one of his own witnesses.

Sam W. Vidler testified that Crumley bore a good reputation in this community. The defense then rested.

In rebuttal the state placed two witnesses upon the stand to testify that Mr. Strong bore a good reputation in the section in which he lived. At this point Dr. Crane was recalled by the defense. He sprung a surprise when he testified that the blood spots upon the wall of the Newport saloon were not there directly after the shooting. E. N. Childers testified as to a conversation he had with C. A. Fitch in which an attempt was made to impeach Mr. Fitch's testimony.

Pueblo, Nov. 6. Returns from the country precincts and the belated voting places today simply confirm the first report that the entire Republican county ticket has been elected by overwhelming majorities. One candidate alone has been in doubt, being W. L. Fairbanks for county clerk. However, the nearly complete returns show that Mr. Fairbanks was elected over E. C. Highberger by a small majority. The landslide was a surprise not only to the Democrats but the Republicans as well. The Star-Journal, the Democratic organ, tonight confesses the defeat of the ticket in an editorial headed "We Were Jarred."

The three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews of No. 1404 Cedar street, died this evening as the result of burns received yesterday while playing with lighted matches. The child's clothing became ignited and he was frightfully injured before he could be rescued.

The Rover club bowling tournament opened this evening with a game between teams Nos. 1 and 2. Team No. 1, under Captain Gate, won two games out of three.

Manager Herbert of the Rio Grande arrived in the city with lesser officials for the purpose of commencing an investigation into the local situation with respect to yards. They will be here about a week.

FOOD FOR GIRLS

Should Be Fed Just Right When Growing.

When parents are at a loss to know what kind of food to supply their boys and girls it will interest them to know of the experience of some mothers in the selection of food that actually does rebuild and nourish the young folks in their school duties.

A school girl in Springfield, Mass., writes: "I wonder if you care to hear from schoolgirls, and I wonder, too, if you have any idea how many girls there are who are troubled as I was before I used Grape-Nuts Food?

"About a year ago I began to have severe headaches and could not sleep well. Was so nervous that I would cry at the least little thing, and finally began to have attacks of faintness. My parents were much alarmed, and thought I would be obliged to give up studying. Our physician said my trouble was extreme nervousness and a disordered stomach.

"I was tired all the time and rode home from school because I did not feel able to walk. Mother tried to tempt my appetite in every way. Breakfast I did not care for. Meat I could not endure, and the different cereals I did not like as a rule.

"I attended the high school and we have an excellent lunch room in the building. As I kept getting worse Mamma said: 'I am going to try this Grape-Nuts Food that I see advertised, but I am afraid you will not like it.' Well, she got a package of it and it was so delicious in taste, with a little cream poured over it that I liked it at once, and since then Grape-Nuts has formed the principal part of my breakfast. I have also a banana or orange with now and then an egg.

"I wish you could see the difference in me. I cannot tell how much I have gained in weight for I did not know my weight when I was ill, but the difference is great. As for strength, I walk both ways to school and do not feel at all weary from it.

"I can study much better and am entirely free from headaches. I sleep so well, in fact, that I am very happy. I fall asleep almost as soon as my head touches the pillow and rest thoroughly.

"I am afraid my letter is lengthy, but my subject is Grape-Nuts of which I cannot say too much." Clara L. Condon.

The mother adds to this letter: "I would like to add just a line expressing my gratitude also, for the benefits which my daughter has derived from Grape-Nuts. Respectfully," Mrs. L. C. Condon.

The Bank Deal Will Go Through

It is now stated that there is no danger of the First National bank deal falling through. The agreement between the parties interested has been signed and the stockholders, it is said, will not hesitate to ratify the action of the directors of the Citizens State bank. It is pretty generally understood that a division of the offices has been agreed upon. John V. McDowell, cashier of the Citizens bank, is slated for the presidency of the First National; John Sherman is to be vice president, and S. S. Sanderson will be the new cashier. The present plan is to have the bank open for business December 1. The capital stock will be $50,000 fully paid up.

BRIEF CITY ITEMS

FANCY DRESS BALL—A fancy dress ball will be given at St. Mary's hall in this city tonight. Dancing is to begin promptly at 8:30 p. m.

BANQUET—The American Order of Protection, which has been organized recently in this city, will give a banquet in Waycott hall tonight. A business meeting will precede the banquet.

CHICKEN PIE SUPPER—The Daughters of Rebekah served a chicken pie supper here on Tuesday night. There was a good crowd and a pleasant evening was spent. There was dancing, and election returns were furnished by County Treasurer Pollen.

EPISCOPAL DINNER—The Women's guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd realized about $15 from their election day dinner. The dinner was well patronized, and the ladies are pleased at their success.

HAS RECOVERED—Oscar Maedel, who was injured at the Midland shops some little time ago, has now recovered and is able to be about.

Opening Reception for New Sanatorium

The Colorado Springs sanatorium, a comparatively new venture here, will be formally opened this afternoon by a public reception from 2 to 6 o'clock. The sanatorium is located at 1208 Lincoln avenue in West Colorado Springs, and commands a superb sweep of the scenery of the mountain range which it exactly faces. Dr. T. G. Horn, a physician of over 25 years' experience in this city, is the director and proprietor of the new sanatorium. The building is a large, home-like looking place, with many windows that invite the sunlight and natural warmth. It is furnished in a neat, simple and yet comfortable style, and everything from the daintily snow-white curtains to the nickel plumbing, is arranged and selected with view to sanitary perfection.

The baths are the most luxurious feature of the house. There are appliances for all kinds of baths, including vapor, Turkish, Russian and medicated baths of all kinds. A large pool of mineral water connects with the bathing apartments. The mineral springs are what first commended the place to Dr. Horn. The waters are said to possess properties for the cure of rheumatism and kindred ailments.

Dr. E. A. Bird, a graduate woman physician from Germany, is in charge of the sanatorium. Dr. Bird has practiced for five years in this state. She will be personal supervisor of the place. Dr. Horn, as president of the institution, will also exercise personal control of it.

The sanatorium is intended as a home for patients of all kinds, except those suffering from contagious diseases. The home-like surroundings will commend it to many people who might object to the formality of the ordinary hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. Horn and Dr. Bird will be at the sanatorium this afternoon to receive their friends who may wish to see the institution.

$1,750 for a Carnation.

B. Eldredge, the rich sewing machine manufacturer of Belvidere, Ill., claims to be the owner of the highest priced carnation in the world. In his conservatory at Belvidere he exhibits a gorgeous flower, which he purchased recently while in San Francisco for $1,750. The color of the carnation is described as salmon, blended with crimson, both in their richest hues. Mr. Eldredge may show his treasure at the coming flower show. The $40,000 carnation investment made by T. W. Lawson of Boston, was for the purchase of 3,000 flowers, it is said, instead of one, as has been generally supposed. (Chicago Tribune.

FIRST LECTURE IN "CHILD STUDY" COURSE

Dr. E. G. Lancaster of Colorado college gave the first of a series of lectures on Child Study yesterday afternoon at the Ferris school. A large sized audience attended the lecture, and much attention was manifested. Quite a number of the women came prepared with note books and pencils to take notes.

The first lecture dealt with the relation between the physiological and the [illegible] nature of man. The nervous system was explained in detail by diagram and illustrations. This lecture prepared the hearers for a discussion of the more intricate mental functions of the nervous system which will follow in the succeeding lectures. Dr. Lancaster's lectures will be given every Wednesday at 3 o'clock. This is the same series of lectures that Dr. Lancaster gave before the Women's club in Denver, which were very highly spoken of at the time.

Funeral of the Late Mr. Morley

Hundreds of friends of the late Frederick H. Morley attended the family residence yesterday afternoon to attend his funeral services. Rev. James H. Gregg, D. D., pastor of the First Congregational church, paid a splendid tribute to the memory of Mr. Morley. The services at the house lasted for half an hour, only the relatives and a few intimate friends went to the cemetery where the body was placed in its vault.

Dr. Gregg's address was as follows:

"Said one who had known long and intimately our friend whom we bury today: 'There are few men in Colorado Springs who had so large a circle of friends,' said he. 'We all know the qualities which win for a man strong and lasting friendships. They are sincerity, fortitude, positive conviction, loyalty, the love of fun, sweetness of nature, good sense, modesty, thoughtfulness for others, a grateful and a generous heart. All these traits, as we well know, were his. They constituted him the man whom we honored and loved. Pretense and sham were foreign to his nature. He respected and loved men who were genuine. He had the native refinement that shuns ostentation and vulgar display. He valued men not according to their wealth or their social position, but according to what they were. Those who were under him in business knew him as more than an employer, as a considerate and generous friend, concerned for his men as his friends, and his helpers. One did not need to see much of him to discover that he was a man who thought for himself, whose judgment upon men and things was weighty and whose convictions as to what was wise and what was unwise, what was right and what was wrong were clear and strong. But he was not as some men who have decided views are, obtrusive and overbearing and striking up strife by his expression of them. He was courteous and deferential toward the judgment of others. He minded gentleness with his firmness in such a way that though his words were few, they carried weight. 'He opened his mouth with wisdom and on his tongue was the law of kindness.' He was a man of a liberal spirit. Interested in and cordial toward good things. He not only gave generously when asked, he gave unasked, did still better as one who had occasion to ask his aid for worthy enterprises said: 'When you asked him for money, he made you feel that you were conferring a favor on him, not he on you.' That is the crowning grace of the giver. His charities were unobtrusive, but they were many, and the most beautiful thing about them was the spirit in which they were bestowed. To recall them is also to bring to mind

"That best portion of a good man's life,
His little, nameless, unremembered acts
Of kindness and of love."

Coming to Colorado as an invalid, his delicate health kept him back from as large a participation in public affairs as his ability and natural force of character might otherwise have brought upon him. But idleness was so alien to him, work was so great a pleasure that though his impaired health compelled him to take repeated vacations, he kept bravely in the harness up to the last. His was the strenuous spirit, though the frail body was not equal to his desire. He was a devoted and tender husband, a considerate and loving father. In his own home one saw him at his best. There his bright mind, his keen sense of humor, his happiness in making others happy found free play. No one who ever spent an evening in his home can forget how gracious a host he was. To me this side of his nature and his life will always be a very sweet memory. He was a friend to go to in perplexity and trouble. The gentle kindness I have once and again seen shine in his eyes and heard quiver in his voice I shall never forget. There was in him as there is wont to be in the best men a beautiful blending of manly force and womanly sensitiveness. He loved life and, from the work he took up, so much that the consciousness of his physical weakness often clung as a heavy cloud on his sky. But the temporary depression of spirit to which it sometimes overwrapped him never made him selfish. The thought that best availed to lift him out of the depression was the suggestion that by his own unhappiness he might be making others unhappy. For it was his disposition not to think upon his own things, but upon the things of others.

"We shall miss him for what he was. Happy as he was in the possession of many friends whom his sterling qualities attracted and bound to him, yet it was those who knew him best who loved him most.

"The earthly life of our dear friend has come to its close—to its untimely close we should be disposed to say were we not sure that God knows best. For such a man as he, so loyal, so true, so kind, so helpful, there must be larger work to do in that land that awaits us all. How comforting, we thought it is that the real life, the life that knows no ending, is on the other side of the grave. So far it sometimes seems, yet really so near. Let us think of our loved ones who have gone before as we do of friends who have gone across the sea and for a season are absent from our sight. Such separations are hard to bear, but have we not found that by them we are bound closer than ever to our dear ones, that they grow dearer still to us and we grow dearer still to them, so that the joy of reunion is greater even than the earlier joy of union had been. So I am sure that for those who tenderly love one another death does not part, but knits the more closely soul to soul. And for the days of inevitable earthly separation and loneliness 'God is the refuge for us and underneath are the everlasting arms.' Nay, He who wept with Martha and Mary at the grave of Lazarus and who said to Mary, 'Thy brother shall rise again,' He is with us still, the friend and comforter of all bereaved ones, even though their eyes dimmed with tears can at first but dimly discern His face and today He speaks to us as of old He spoke to sorrowing ones in Galilee: 'Lo! I am with you all the days unto the end of the world.' To the tenderness of the divine love we commit this stricken household, those who far away are bowed in grief and all here in this community to whom his memory will ever be dear.

The following resolutions regretting the death of Mr. Morley were passed yesterday by the chamber of commerce:

Colorado Springs, Nov. 6, 1901.

With profound regret we have received the sad tidings of the death of Frederick H. Morley who, during nearly the entire period of his residence in our city, has been an active and prominent member of the Colorado Springs chamber of commerce. His integrity, kindliness and geniality were proverbial and he ever acted as an uplifting power on the side of truth and justice as well as for the material improvement and development of our city. With sympathy and practical generosity he aided all beneficial public measures advocated by this organization and we realize the great loss the community and the chamber of commerce have sustained by his passing from our midst. To the bereaved family we tender our sincerest sympathy in this hour of affliction.

The Colorado Springs chamber of commerce,

D. B. Fairley,
President.
John G. Shields,
Vice President.
Gilbert McClure,
Secretary.

He Says Indians Are Hard to Handle

"The ranchers and farmers in the White River country have to face a pretty serious proposition every year at about this time, when the Indians become restless and leave their reservations to go hunting," said J. W. Corbin of Kansas City yesterday at the Alamo. Mr. Corbin had just returned from a month's hunting trip with a party of people from his own town and St. Louis and Chicago. He formerly lived in Denver and has extensive mining interests in the Cripple Creek district and near Idaho Springs. He has spent at least a month during the fall of each year in Colorado for the past 15 years. A large hunting party is organized by him every year and they remain in the mountains until the weather becomes too cold for the huntsman's comfort.

"You simply cannot make an Indian respect our game laws. It would not be so bad if they did wander off their boundaries to indulge in hunting if they used any discretion about killing game, but you might as well talk Hebrew to an Indian as to talk about discretion. They kill deer of all ages and elk, too, and in as large quantity as they can obtain. They simply clear the range of game as far as their shots will carry. In passing through the country, if by chance or other ways they should kill some man's cows and calves, and this happens often enough, they make no attempt at reparation. On the other hand, they consider even these their lawful prey. Now, if a white man should do such a thing there would be a battle quick enough, but just here is where the trouble all begins. If the white man attempts to get even, the whole tribe is down on the whites in all the country around. It does not make much difference to the angered Indian whether he shoots the white man with whom he had the grievance or some other white man. They all look alike to the Indian on the warpath for revenge.

"The game wardens are much censured, I observe, but to you people away off over here, totally unfamiliar with the conditions on the reservations, things look quite different. From what I was able to see for myself, the game wardens are conscientiously doing their duties and are not exaggerating the depredations of the Indians one bit. Patience and much forbearance are necessary in dealing with the Indians. They possess all the simplicity of children, combined with the cunning of the savage, and to keep them within the bounds of the white man's law is no easy task for the men who are stationed in the mountains to keep the law."

HAYDN'S "CREATION" ON SUNDAY NIGHT

On Sunday evening next the second portion of Haydn's Creation will be rendered at St. Stephen's church. The two great choruses of the oratorio are included in this selection. "Awake the Harp" is most difficult, as it is a most beautiful chorus, and the chorister boys sustain their part in the fugue with great spirit and precision. "The Heavens Are Telling" will conclude the program. All seats free. The program will be as follows:

Bass Solos—
(a) "And God Said, Let the Waters."
(b) "Rolling in Foaming Billows."
(c) "Softly Purling, Glides On."
Mr. C. S. Gambrill.
Tenor Solo—"And the Heavenly Host."
Mr. V. L. Clemence.
Chorus—"Awake the Harp."
Tenor Solos—
(a) "And God Said, Let There be Light."
(b) "In Splendor Bright."
(c) "With Softer Beams."
Mr. V. L. Clemence.
Chorus—"The Heavens Are Telling."

Y. M. C. A. TO PLAN FOR CITY CANVASS

The executive committee of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a meeting at the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. this afternoon at 2 o'clock to district the city for a personal canvass for the building fund.

The program for the reception of Mr. Fred B. Smith, national secretary, has been completed. The reception will take place at the Y. M. C. A. Friday night at 8 o'clock. The principal topic of discussion will be a paper, "The Religious Work of the Y. M. C. A.," from a pastor's standpoint, by Rev. F. N. Calvin; from the director's standpoint, by Dr. W. F. Slocum; from the state secretary's standpoint, by W. N. Danner of Denver. The Y. M. C. A. quartet will render several selections. There will also be instrumental music.

On Sunday afternoon a special mass meeting for men will be held at 3:30 o'clock at some place to be announced later.

AMUSEMENTS

STUART ROBSON IN "THE HENRIETTA."

The engagement of Stuart Robson at the Opera house Saturday evening will give the public an opportunity to again see that most popular of modern stage conceptions, Mr. Robson's "Bertle, the Lamb," and unquestionably the most popular American comedy ever written, Bronson Howard's "The Henrietta." No character on the American stage is more famous than Mr. Robson's "Bertle, the Lamb," and he has not held a deeper or greater fascination for American audiences than "The Henrietta." Mr. Robson has made of the present presentation of "The Henrietta" the most noteworthy production ever given to it during its career of fourteen years.

It is presented with the most elaborate of modern scenic settings, and a supporting company that can almost be called an all-star organization, three of the members have recently played at the head of their own organizations. The company includes such well-known names as Madlyn Arthur, Rose Winstal, Dorothy Rosmore, Estelle Carter, Clifford Leigh, Charles A. Lane, Mary Keally, Laura Thompson, Roy Atwell, Charles Gilbert, Joseph P. Keefe and others.

"THE BURGOMASTER."

"The Burgomaster," heralded as the most pronounced financial and artistic record-breaker in theatrical history, "for like attractions," is announced for the Opera house on next Tuesday evening, on which occasion we may expect to witness a most palatable feast of wit, beauty and song, with the same rapture as the cultured Bostonians have the past summer, where this jolly jingle has been presented for 108 performances. It has also been seen in New York 108 times, Philadelphia 67 times, Buffalo during the Panamerican exposition 56 times and in Chicago, where it was originally produced, a train for 136 performances.

This musical comedy is [illegible] in a prologue and two acts, and although it borders on comic or light opera, inasmuch as it contains an original book and score of 24 especially written numbers, nevertheless, it relinquishes all claim to this significant title inasmuch as it admits of many vaudeville and high class specialty features.

Gustave Luders, a western composer of note, wrote the music, and Harry Pixley, an eminent Chicago newspaper man and wit, is responsible for the book and lyrics, and it has been many times said that Mr. Luders's music and Mr. Pixley's humor suit the actors as much as the people across the footlights.

The company is a large one, numbering 80 people, and in addition to its many stellar lights of musical comedy, extravaganza and operatic fame, it glories in a large girlie chorus, said to be an innovation of youth and grace.

LYCEUM COURSE.

The well-known musical organization, the Schumann Grand Concert company, will appear at the Temple theater Saturday, November 9, in a series of choice instrumental and vocal selections. Miss Edith Adams, the celebrated cello player, is the leading artist of Manager Gordon's company this season and her interpretation of Goltermann's "Concerto" in A minor, will be well worth listening to. Miss Adams has won a distinguished success in all the noted musical centers, both abroad and at home, and her technique bears the stamp of genius. Mrs. Robert Goldbeck, the pianist, comes of a noted family of musicians, and her husband has won considerable success as a composer and director. Mrs. Goldbeck has fully mastered the pianoforte and gained the approval of her teachers abroad. In London she received a most flattering reception and the critics were outspoken in their praise of her brilliant playing.

Miss Lillian Beard, the third member of this distinguished coterie of artists, is a graduate from a well-known Chicago choir and only lately filled an engagement as prima donna of the Castle Square Opera company. She has a sweet contralto voice of very wide range and great power.

Mr. Walter McPherson is the basso of the Schumann Grand Concert company. He has studied with De Vries and Sbriglia in Paris and sang in concerts with great success during the past few years. He is now preparing himself for grand opera and making a special study of the leading bass roles. All the above artists will positively appear in the concert Manager Gordon advertises to be given here. Seats on sale at 7 o'clock. Prices 50c, 75c, $1.00. Course tickets at 19 N. Tejon.

THE ELECTION RESULT IN ARAPAHOE COUNTY.

SIX WEEKS AGO the almost unanimous opinion of Democrats, as well as Republicans in the city of Denver, was that Arapahoe county would give at least 10,000 plurality for the Republican ticket at the fall election.

That belief was founded upon the very best of reasons.

Denver is naturally and normally a Republican city by from 6,000 to 10,000 majority over the Democrats. The Republicans had carried the city election last spring for their entire ticket by majorities ranging from 1,500 to 6,000, and had the prestige of victory to start the fall campaign upon.

The Democrats were apparently hopelessly divided. The News had for months been waging unceasing warfare against alleged corrupt and extravagant acts of the Democratic county commissioners. It had charged them with corruptly drawing jurors to find particular verdicts in the criminal division of the district court; with being part and parcel of a conspiracy to bribe a jury to convict Anderson, in the case of the people against him for assaulting the proprietors of the Post; with having set up a jury to acquit some defendants in a criminal libel suit. Similar charges were made against the Democratic county clerk, the Democratic district attorney and Democratic judge of the criminal division of the district court.

Extravagance had run riot in the conduct of county affairs by Democratic officials, and taxes had been greatly increased. The ministers of Denver had publicly denounced the Democratic fire and police board for permitting gambling and other violations of the criminal law.

The whole community was stirred to the depths of open indignation at the brazen frauds unsuccessfully attempted by the Democratic leaders in the city election.

Democracy was divided into warring factions, each of which solemnly swore it never would compromise with the other. Ex-Governor Thomas gave a newspaper interview, the purport of which was that the Democrats would probably be beaten by 10,000 majority, and all on account of the influence of Senator Patterson and the News.

Senator Patterson declared publicly that he never would support County Clerk Aichele, and that the impending defeat of the Democratic party could be charged directly to the corrupt acts of county officials, and to the jury bribery scandals in which the News charged that many of such officials were involved.

The Democratic convention met and refused to pass a resolution denouncing the alleged attempts at jury bribing; it renominated County Clerk Aichele; it nominated only an ordinarily strong ticket throughout. The Post said nothing in favor of the ticket until after the Republican convention; the News bolted the nomination of Aichele and of Cannon for county commissioner and denounced the convention for not incorporating old-time Democratic planks in its platform and for refusing to condemn the attempts at jury bribing.

The Democrats were distracted and disheartened. They conceded overwhelming defeat. Aichele sent word to Patterson that if he would support the balance of the Democratic ticket he would withdraw.

While this proposition was pending the Republican convention met. It was composed of 750 delegates, 155 of whom were federal office holders, their clerks and members of their families.

In 1892, after a disastrous bolt in Arapahoe county similar to that of Tuesday, and caused by like reasons of arbitrary and unfair conduct in controlling the county convention, the Republican party of Arapahoe county adopted a splendid set of rules for its government, under which every candidate was given an equal and fair chance before a convention of impartially-selected delegates.

These rules were arbitrarily suspended in arranging for the late convention, and no person was allowed to enter the lists as a candidate for delegate whose name was not passed upon and approved by a little coterie of self-constituted party managers.

A complete slate of candidates for every office selected by the same coterie was then forced through the convention. Several aspirants, whose names were not on the slate, had been assured that the convention would be unbridled in its action, and that no candidate had been selected for any position. Such unsophisticated and credulous aspirants permitted their names to go before the convention, only to encounter overwhelming and ignominious defeat. Some of the large Republican business interests asked for the nomination of certain men of standing and influence in the community. They were informed that their suggestions were not needed.

Within 48 hours after the adjournment of the convention a bolt of large proportions crystallized among Republican voters. The old soldiers, who had been ignored in the convention, held a meeting and named a ticket of their own. The law and order people did the same thing. Republican women held a meeting and denounced the arbitrary action of the convention, and the character of the men at the head of the party.

Aichele withdrew his proposition to Patterson. All Democratic differences were buried and all Democratic factions got together. The Silver Republican leaders, who had been completely ignored in the Democratic convention, came out for the entire Democratic ticket. The News started a vigorous fight against the federal office-holding clique and discredited politicians who had usurped the power, authority and functions of the Republican party in Arapahoe county.

The Post fell in line for the Democratic ticket with John Carroll's powerful editorials and Steele's still more powerful cartoons.

The Republican management committed still further blunders by placing federal office holders in charge of the campaign. The United States marshal was made chairman of the committee, the assistant postmaster was made secretary and a postoffice inspector was made chief of the canvassers' bureau, while other federal officials composed a self-constructed advisory board.

Thus the rosy prospects for an overwhelming Republican victory in the Capital city, a victory which would have presaged certain triumph in the state next year, was turned into a complete and disastrous defeat through the arbitrary action and selfish conduct of those vested with party management.

The Colorado people have been voting independently for so many years that they will not tamely submit to boss rule, nor indorse disreputable or unfair campaign methods, whether such methods are invoked to control party conventions or the results of general elections.

With woman's suffrage has come a finer discrimination relative to campaign methods, and a more critical inspection of the character of party leaders.

One act of the recent Arapahoe Republican county convention is of interest to the party of the entire state, and that was the amending of the rule which formerly gave the committee itself the power to fill all vacancies, and by virtually vesting that power in the county chairman, and also clothing the chairman with authority to remove regularly-elected committeemen at any time he may see fit.

In the absence of a strict primary election law, every political party, which wishes to earn the good will of the voters, should be governed by fair, impartial and general party rules, which make it impossible for any one person or clique to control the party action upon any nomination or other important matter, and which guarantee to every aspirant for office the fullest, freest and fairest possible opportunity to have his claims submitted and honestly passed upon by the party conventions.

Any other policy is, properly destructive to all political parties. When nominations are made it is essential to party success for every candidate and his friends to feel that the result is a fair one; that the nomination is a party nomination, and not the mandate of a party boss; that all candidates have been treated alike and that the result has been settled upon merit and not by favoritism.

The next Republican state convention should adopt strict, specific and complete party rules for the government of the party in all of its conventions, and should so guard the prerogative of every member of the party to participate in party affairs that he shall feel that whatever result is accomplished, it is a just and fair one.

There are hundreds of ambitious young Republicans in Colorado who would develop into great party leaders or eminent statesmen, if given the opportunity for political action in such an honorable way that they could feel that promotion depended solely upon merit and commendable public and political work, instead of upon the favor of some party boss, who wishes not for MEN, BUT FOR TOOLS TO DO HIS BIDDING.

Under present political conditions in Colorado a premium is placed upon mediocrity and servility, while independence, manhood and ability are at a discount, and all for the reason that the parties are entirely subject to the sway of bosses, and it is impossible for a young man to succeed who is not willing to wear the pricking and obnoxious collar of party dictators.

The Republican party of Colorado should change all of this, first, by adopting party rules guarding the sacred right of the party to manage its own affairs, and, second, by advocating and supporting a primary election law which shall forever hereafter make it impossible for bossism or gag rule to exist in any political party in the state.

Colorado will never submit to the domination of a Croker or a Quay, and the sooner its people force the enactment of a primary election law, the better off the state will be.

It is remarkable that some party leaders prefer constant party defeat to abdicating their positions of authority for the sake of a party victory.

Such leaders are unfit for party honors, and there should be party rules which summarily dispose of them.

The result in Arapahoe county is not attributable to an excessively light vote, as the vote in Denver appears to exceed that of last spring by two or three thousand.

It is apparent that many Republicans voted the Democratic ticket outright, as a rebuke to their own party management.

It is equally apparent that as soon as the party in Arapahoe county is allowed to manage its own affairs, and to nominate its own candidates, and to conduct its campaigns under acceptable leadership, the result will be an old-time Republican victory.

Republicans must not be misled by the meaning of the Republican victories in so many counties this fall. Practically all of the same counties elected part of the Republican ticket two years ago yet all of them gave strong Fusion majorities last year. It only demonstrates that the state is Republican when left to manage its own affairs, but that the people will at all times resent boss rule and disreputable candidates.

The American Atmosphere.

I saw at the Lawyers' club the other day one of the greatest and most enterprising of the steel workers of England. (There is something new stirring in the world of steel—but that is not part of this story.) I know this great operator, have twice crossed the ocean with him and have learned how rich and powerful and how uncommonly enterprising an Englishman he is. One day he told me the secret of his success. Said he: "I owe the best of my working life to your country. I cross over to America at least twice a year simply to breathe the wonderful air over there. It is so tonic, so stimulating, so clear and so clearing to the mental as well as the physical vision, that I would do it an injustice to call it either a champagne atmosphere or an elixir. It is much more than either—it is broadening, clarifying, energizing.

"I go to America twice a year simply to be able to do business in England. If I stayed at home all the time I would become too conservative and narrow. I would be afraid of big undertakings and I would decline to adopt new methods. But when I have been in America and run home once again nothing daunts me; nothing seems too big to undertake. I make contracts which would stagger me if I had not got this Yankee ozone in my lungs. And I carry them out successfully, for the same reason. I am made a bigger man, a broader, abler business man, just by getting two whiffs of American air every year." (Julian Ralph.

Noted Ocean Trip.

A London cablegram saying that the last trip of the White Star steamship Oceanic, the longest ship that ever rode the seas from Liverpool to New York, broke all records of profit making, suggests the interesting and complicated question of the expenses and financiering of the big ship on her 3,097-knot journey.

The cost of running the vessel, according to the London Daily News, was $75,000, while from passengers alone was received $122,630. The subtraction shows a remainder of profit of $47,630.

This does not include the receipts for bringing to New York 2,000 tons of woolens, dry goods, cutlery, goat skins, olive oil and grapes, raisins and almonds from Spain, at the rate of $2.60 a ton, or a total of $5,200, or other receipts. Only 2,000 tons of the Oceanic's 6,000 tons of cargo space was utilized.

The subsidy from the French government for the right to enroll the Oceanic [illegible] auxiliary cruiser in private, is divided into twelve parts, and even Agent John Lee doesn't know what this means. The Oceanic brought 1,200 bags of mail, for which she received from the king the same amount, bringing she much or little.

In view of the profit on passengers alone no wonder Bruce Ismay, of Ismay, Imole & Co., said on his last trip to New York: "J. Pierpont Morgan hasn't enough money to buy the White Star line."

Yet the dividends paid by the close corporation, considering the enormous expenses of all the ships, are probably less than 12 per cent.

Marquis Ito, the Great Man of Japan

To write the marquis' biography is to write the history of the country since the revolution. To read the constitution is to read him, for he drafted it. Whether out of office or in office, his has been the great dominating influence for the last twenty years. He has been as frequently the power behind the premier as the premier. Out of office or in office, he has always had the ear of the emperor. His first appointment was to the governorship of Kobe, when it became a free port. His first cabinet portfolio was that of minister of public works, in 1873, when he was only thirty-two years of age. His first cabinet was from 1886 to 1889; his second, 1892-1896; his third, January to June, 1897; his fourth, October, 1900, to May, 1901.

The wonder of what he has accomplished is a part with the wonder that an edict should make the lords of provinces give up their fiefs and samurai, cut their queues, lay aside their swords, and face, with the masses, the problem of earning a living when handicapped by soft hands and minds trained only to chivalrous etiquette. The modern Japan which his policy has brought forth was made possible by the religious devotion of nobles and coolies to the emperor, which made the imperial wishes law; by the intense patriotism and the official integrity of the leaders of the Daimyos, who have become the officers of the army and navy and members of the civil service. As an incidental, I should place integrity as the first cause. When you have official servants so proud that even the postmen will not accept a Christmas present; a statesman knows that, whatever his errors of construction may be, the timbers are sound. As long as men become policemen on less than a coolie's pay for the honor of serving the government, it will never lack for first rate ability to fill its offices. Japan may well reverence her old military aristocracy, with its false punctilios. (Frederick Palmer, in Scribner's Magazine.

Cause for Thankfulness.

"Prev'us to de amalgamation ob dis yer collectshun," observed the pastor, "mah spoke at some lengt' upon de subjec' ob Thanksgibbing.

"In mah po' way ah endeavored fo' to p'int out de various whys an' wharfo's dat dis yer flock should be raisin' its voice in praise dis glorious mawnin', an' ah hed hoped de result would hab been a trifle mo' apparent in de size ob de offerin'. Howebber,

"But, in recountin' de many things fo' which members ob dis gadderin' oughter be thankful, it seems dat ah neglected one sinner."

Here the reverend gentleman looked about and held up to view a shining suspender button which he had taken from the plate.

"Ah refer," said he, "to de gemman whut put dis in de collects-hun. He oughter be thankful ah don't know who he am!" —(Harper's Bazar.

A Political Master-Stroke.

A political candidate, on paying a second visit to the house of a doubtful voter of the peasant class, was well pleased but somewhat surprised at hearing from the elector that he would support him.

"Glad to hear it," said the candidate; "I thought you were against me."

"So I was at first," replied the peasant. "When you called up here the other day and stood by that pig-sty and talked for half an hour, ye didn't budge me an inch; but after you had gone away, sir, I got to thinkin' how ye'd reached yer hand over the rail and scratched the pig's back till he lay down wi' the pleasure of it. I made up my mind that when a man was so sociable as that wi' a poor fellow creature, I wasn't the one to vote against him." —(Tid-Bits.

Avoid the Alligator.

He was evidently from the country, this little old German, and as his eyes rested on the elevator, undoubtedly for the first time, his sense of the ridiculous was touched.

For a few minutes he stood in wonderment and then, laughing softly to himself, he stopped the first person he chanced to see, who happened to be the janitor, and direct'd his ire him: "Vat was dot leedle box t'ing vat valks people cop der stairs stooden still?"

"Oh, that's the elevator," was the answer.

"Oh, dat's vot idt is, is idt? I hif a pocketbook made offen der peel uf one uf doze." He tried a ride but didn't like it. Then he said:

"I vould told my wife nefer to go in mit you uf dor alligators veh dey valkt by hand vas goot." —(New York Post.

HON. R. L. CHAMBERS

The Efficient Chairman of the El Paso County Republican Central Committee.

The Republicans of El Paso county owe County Chairman Chambers a debt of gratitude which they cannot easily repay. It is quite as essential to have clean, able and honest party chairmen as it is to have candidates with the same qualifications.

Mr. Chambers has conducted two city and two county campaigns and in every instance he has elected the Republican ticket.

Not a little of the result is attributed to the high character of Mr. Chambers and the universal respect for him by the community.

The result of the election yesterday keeps El Paso county the banner Republican county of Colorado.

The average plurality of that part of the ticket which fairly represents the strictly party vote is about 2,600—a gain of 900 over the plurality for President McKinley last year.

Mr. Chambers deserves almost any honor at the hands of the Republicans which he may desire and the Gazette is quite certain the party will take pleasure in rewarding him for the splendid work he has done as chairman of the committee.

Mr. Chambers is in some respects a peculiar campaign worker. He has all the qualities of strength that are usually found in campaign managers and he has several strong points that are distinctively his own. If you go to him and ask him how a certain district stands he may tell you that it is "safe." If you are satisfied with that then you can go on about your business. If you want anything more definite you will have to ask him again when he will tell you why he thinks it is "safe." He never uses figures in forecasting the result in any district because, in the first place, if he did, he might sometimes prove to be wrong and in the second place he would simply be putting the opposition in possession of information that it would proceed to use.

He is not the first member of the Chambers family to be interested in politics. He was born in the little town of Bernadotte, Illinois, and his father, a farmer, had for several years been an active worker in politics, having become a member of the Republican party upon its organization and always remaining a devoted supporter of the principles of that party. His father's name was John A. Chambers. When R. L. Chambers became old enough to become interested in politics, which was not so long ago as some people might think from meeting him, for he was born in 1857, he identified himself with the Republican party and has ever since been an active worker. His brothers, like him, have been campaign workers, and like himself and his father, their work was always in the interests of other members of the party. Mr. Chambers was never an office holder and he has never been a candidate for any office though several times he has been urged to accept nominations for positions of greater or lesser importance.

He is the honest, hard-working, faithful product of the Illinois prairies. Like others who have shared in the success of the upbuilding of the west he left home and started out west to make his own way. He had a public school education received in Bloomington, Ill., supplemented with a literary course at Hedding college at Abingdon, Ill., and a law course at the Illinois Wesleyan college at Bloomington. Before assuming the practice of his profession anywhere, however, he went to Montana where he spent two years among the Indians and the buffalo herds and few men can tell more interesting stories of life on the western plains or tell them in a more interesting manner than Mr. Chambers.

His coming to Colorado Springs in 1895 was preceded by ten years in the practice of law at Colby, Kansas. Since coming here he has occupied a high place in the estimation of his fellowmen and he has proven a particularly valuable man to the Republican party. The organization that has the party's affairs in charge in this county at the present time is the result of his planning and the success this organization as a working force in a campaign, well evidenced by the result on Tuesday, is due in large measure to his foresight and the promptness with which he meets and disposes of the thousands of matters, small in themselves but important in their effect, that present themselves during the course of a campaign.

The City Now Owns the City Hall Site

Colorado Springs now owns the seven lots at the northeast corner of Kiowa street and Nevada avenue. This is the site for the new $100,000 city hall and it is one of the finest sites in the city.

The lots became the property of the city late yesterday afternoon when Alderman McIntyre, chairman of the public grounds and buildings committee of the city council, handed over to Mr. W. S. Stratton the purchase price of the lots and Mr. Stratton in turn handed Mr. McIntyre the warranty deed transferring the property to the city.

The city has got a big bargain in the seven lots. As will be remembered by those living here at the time, Mr. Stratton made a proposition to the city that if the council would purchase the four lots comprising the Methodist church property on the corner he would give the city the three adjoining lots on the north, provided the city constructed a $100,000 city hall on the site. The four lots were held at $78,000, but with the additional three lots, making in all a tract 175 by 190 feet, the site is worth, at a low figure, $50,000. Mr. Stratton further agreed to purchase the lots for the city and hold them at four per cent interest on the investment until the city could vote bonds and sell them for the purchase of the lots.

The proposition was accepted. Mr. Stratton bought the lots and gave the city an option on the seven at the purchase price of the four. The city voted bonds and has just sold them. Yesterday Alderman McIntyre, for the city, formally took up the option and the lots now belong to the city. The seven lots were turned over for a consideration of $29,073.33, which includes $1,073.33 interest at four per cent, and leaves a principal of $28,000, the original sum paid by Mr. Stratton for the four lots in the Methodist property. The city has for some time been using the Methodist parsonage and brick barn in the rear for city offices and a patrol barn, and the $1,073.33 interest is considered as cheap rent in view of the pressing demand for room for city offices which was solved by the parsonage. The city gets the parsonage and church along with the seven lots.

The plans for the new city hall are progressing very satisfactorily. The architects expect to have something definite to submit to the council within a few days and Alderman McIntyre, chairman of the buildings committee, states that the contract for the city hall will be let in about six weeks.

Big Users of Water Must Have Meters

If the ordinance now being drawn up by the water and ordinance committees of the city council becomes a law, the city's system of determining the rates of water rent will practically be revolutionized for the large consumers. The proposed new law, which is fathered by the water commissioner and some of the aldermen, provides that all large consumers of water shall pay for it according to the amount used, and that all the water they consume must be measured by a meter. It is likely that the ordinance will contain a provision that the consumers must buy their own meters.

There is now an ordinance on the books providing that railroads, livery stables, laundries and ice manufacturing plants must use the meter system. The laundries and liveries pay 10 cents per 1,000 gallons and the railroads pay about six cents a thousand gallons.

The ordinance now being prepared will compel all hotels, large office buildings, manufacturing plants, sanitariums and other institutions to adopt the meter system. According to the terms of the new law, if it is passed by the council, the large consumers must pay from six to 15 cents per 1,000 gallons for water, according to the amount used. This will not have the effect of increasing the water rates to any extent, but will result in a saving of water by the consumers who pay according to the amount used. If a provision is made in the ordinance that the consumers must pay for the meter, some of them may make objections. The meters cost from $25 to $500, according to size.

The new ordinance provides that the following consumers must have meters: Hotels, business blocks of over 10 rooms, boarding houses of over 15 rooms, bottling establishments, cold storage plants, power houses, green houses, county court house, county jail, brick yards, sanitariums and hospitals.

YESTERDAY WAS WEDDING DAY

Well Known People Composed Nuptial Parties.

THE VEST-WOLFER MARRIAGE

Occurred Last Night and Was a Pretty Event—Murtaugh-Kilgallon Wedding—Mr. W. J. Peyser Was Married in Denver.

Last evening at 6 o'clock the marriage of Miss Mae H. Wolfer to Mr. Ralph L. Vest occurred at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna Wolfer, 131 South Nevada avenue, in the presence of a few relatives and friends. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. C. H. Wilson, pastor of the First Methodist church.

After congratulations had been extended to the happy couple the whole company repaired to the home of the groom's father, Mr. A. E. Vest, 1124 North Weber street, where a large reception was held, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The bride and groom, with Mrs. Wolfer, the bride's mother, and Mr. Vest, the groom's father, received. They stood in the front parlor beneath a canopy of smilax illuminated with tiny pink-shaded electric lights. Tall palms, ferns and white chrysanthemums were used in decorating the reception hall and parlor.

The bride wore a dainty white toilet of Paris lawn garnitured with tiny tucks, valenciennes lace and insertion. On the bodice was a large bolero caught with a large chou of ivory satin ribbon. She carried bride's roses.

Assisting in the entertainment of the guests were Miss Frona Wolfer, Miss Atha Vest, Mrs. E. W. Case and Mr. J. L. Vest. The bay window of the back parlor was banked with palms and scarlet geraniums, making a pretty recess within which Mrs. J. W. Ware of Cripple Creek dispensed punch. In an adjoining room a large variety of gifts were displayed, for Mr. and Mrs. Vest were handsomely remembered by their friends. Miss Strong's mandolin orchestra favored the company with popular musical selections all the evening.

Miss Artie Calvin distributed the wedding cake, cut in cubes and tied with pink ribbons. The Misses Donovan, Miss King and Miss Sanford served refreshments in the dining room. Pink carnations were used in the table centerpiece and strands of smilax wound around festoons of pink satin ribbon gracefully fell from the electroliers to the corners of the table, terminating in large bows.

Mr. and Mrs. Vest are to reside at 1124 North Weber street and will be at home on Thursdays.

A very pretty wedding occurred at St. Mary's Catholic church yesterday morning at 9 o'clock when Miss Norah J. Kilgallon was married to Mr. Michael J. Murtaugh. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Hugh L. McMennamin, assisted by Father Clarke. The choir rendered special music. The bride was attended by her niece, Miss Mamie McHale, and Mr. John H. Murphy was best man. The ushers were Mr. J. E. Sullivan and Mr. J. T. McCarthy. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the new home of the young couple on Spruce street. The guests were: Rev. Father McMennamin, Rev. Father Clarke, Rev. Father J. S. McCourt, Mrs. Kilgallon of Pueblo, Messrs. Isarvey, McHale, Murray, Murphy, Sullivan and McCarthy. A number of handsome and costly presents were given the bride and groom by their friends, who are many.

The bride wore silk grenadine trimmed with real valenciennes lace, and a silk tulle bride's veil, with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Miss McHale, the bridesmaid, was attired in white mull trimmed with Irish point embroidery. She carried a bouquet of Marshal Neil roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Murtaugh will be at home to their friends on Wednesdays at 308 Spruce street.

The marriage of Miss Diana H. Weinberg of Denver and William J. Peyser of this city took place in Denver last night at the residence of the bride's parents, 829 Welton street. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Friedman, according to the rites of the Jewish faith. Miss Martha Morris and Mr. Joseph Weinberg were the bridal attendants. The relatives of the two families and a few near friends were present at the wedding. A supper was served after the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Peyser will reside here after their honeymoon trip.

AS "GATH" REMEMBERED STOKES.

A Hardened Man of Pleasure, a Petrefaction, Avoided By Men.

This is "Gath's" comment on Edward Stokes:

Edward Stokes, the killer of James Fisk, Jr., about thirty years ago, died today. His career need not be painted in lampblack to express the moral that is is worse to survive a bad tragedy than to be ended in it. Stokes was remade by the faith and friendship of John MacKay, whom he sued and got the best of in these suspected New York courts. As there could not be two Jim Fiskes and MacKay holds a high character in New York, the victory of Stokes was regarded as confirming a want of gratitude in his character. Then he had a series of suits with this cousin Stokes, whom he worsted, as to the Hoffman hotel property. People began to avoid Ed. Stokes. There was a stolidity mixed with a worldiness in his address which circulated among the commons, but arrested men of care. It was hard to like him, even when one tried. He shut the past up and did not care for it. He tried pleasure in every form, but life's freshness was not there. Roscoe Conkling affected him; Ingersoll did so, somewhat. Both were men of the minority. Stokes seemed to be a hardened man of pleasure, a petrefaction.

About twenty years ago a western judge wanted me to make a trip alone with him and Stokes upon the latter's steam cutter, called the Fra Diavolo. I positively refused, but the judge said he had promised I would go and was put in a bad relation with Stokes's self-esteem. On this he harped so often that I went once, saying "once" and but once.

The boat was not large and had a little cabin, looked like a land pirate's rendezvous, and the excursion up the sound was dreary. Stokes had been good looking, was gray, had no depth, talked without smoothness or range, and seemed to me of small calibre and of the criminal concentration. Practical, commercial, I found that he was not even picturesque by crime. I came back unillumined, uncompensated in any way. Some of Fisk's family I had seen were of kind breeding, but Stokes had no family tie. Remove his clothes and good look, and there was the Dick Turpin, the man who would take life to gratify his anger. He chose the woman's stairway to waylay Fisk. His defense was premeditated—the law-breaker character of Fisk. But killing is the breaking of every law; it covets, steals, profanes and shames.

JUDGE ORR

WILL BE THE FIRST NEW OFFICIAL TO QUALIFY.

He Will Take Office For the Unexpired Term on Nov. 15—Sterritt to Be District Clerk—Other Changes.

The first change among the office holders at the county court house, as the result of Tuesday's election, will take place November 15, when James A. Orr, county judge, will take the oath of office. Form that date until January 1, Judge Orr will serve the unexpired term of Judge Cunningham, now at the district court. On January 1, Judge Orr will begin his new term.

Another change which will take place soon will be the retirement of District Clerk D. A. Thomas, who has resigned his position on account of illness. It is understood that Judges Cunningham and Seals of the district court will name as Mr. Thomas' successor Clyde L. Sterritt, who is now deputy clerk of the county court. The appointment has not yet been made, but it is understood that it will be announced as soon as Mr. Thomas retires. There are several candidates for the position.

Mr. Orr's successor as county attorney will be named by the county commissioners within a few days. The new county attorney will be a Republican.

Sheriff Goddard, Assessor Layden and Commissioner Doran will retire on January 1, when their Republican successors will assume their duties. County Clerk Reed and Treasurer Bollen will qualify for their second terms at the same time.

SOFT, GLOSSY HAIR.

It Can Only Be Had Where There is No Dandruff.

Any man or woman who wants soft, glossy hair must be free of dandruff, which causes falling hair. Since it has become known that dandruff is a germ disease, the old hair preparations that were mostly scalp irritants, have been abandoned, and the public, barbers and doctors included, have taken to using Newbro's Herpicide, the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ. Young Hickman, N. D., says: "Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp from dandruff and prevents the hair's falling out, but promotes a new growth. Herpicide keeps my hair very glossy."

Burlington Route

There's an Observation Car

on the rear of the Chicago Special, the Burlington's famous "one night" train from Denver to Chicago.

Inside, it is very similar to the library car formerly in service on this train. It has a writing desk and easy chairs. The popular monthlies and illustrated weeklies are at hand, and there is a buffet where one can secure almost anything he wants in the way of refreshment.

The observation platform on the car adds greatly to the train's appearance, is convenient, too,—finest place on the world to sit and chat and look at the scenery.

Omaha and Chicago trains leave Denver at 6:00 p. m. and 10:00 p. m. Kansas City and St. Louis, at 2:15 p. m. and 10:00 p. m.

THE ELKTON ORE BODY

An Immense Amount of Low Grade in the 700-foot Level---Sinking on the Whisper Workings of the Gold Sovereign.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Nov. 6.—The drift which is being run through the big ore chimney on the 700-foot level of the Elkton, has been extended for a distance of about 10 feet south on the same, and so far there has been no change in the values or the formation of the ore body. The present indications are that no walls to the big shoot will be encountered for some time yet, leaving an immense body of low grade ore. The values in the face of the drift average a little over an ounce in gold to the ton. The best values are found in the phonolite which is very much broken up, the seams being filled in with sand and talc which do not carry a good grade of ore.

Fitzpatrick and associates, who recently secured the lease on the Whisper workings, have done [illegible] hill, are installing a steam hoisting plant which will be in operation by the first of the week. Sinking will then be commenced and the shaft will be put down 100 feet deeper to the 500-foot point before shipments are regularly made. On the 400-foot level and at the upper depths there are several good ore shoots and pockets which have yielded good values for a number of years.

Devine and Rustow, operating another block of the Gold Sovereign, are sending out an average of a car load of ore a day from their lease. The ore is from the 200-foot level of the Jackson shaft, where a four-foot body was recently opened up. Screenings from the shoot give values of $40 per ton.

The lessees on the Maggie on the west side of Bull hill, adjoining the John A. Logan, are developing a good body of ore in the 200-foot level at a distance of 25 feet south of the shaft. The ore is mostly low grade, but there is a good-sized shoot of it and the lessees are getting out a fair profit. In the 150-foot level a three-foot streak of $20 ore is being developed, the average grade of screenings sent out from the lease is about two ounces in gold to the ton.

The Cripple Creek Gold Temple Mining company has opened up a fair body of ore in the Trilby claim, adjoining the Dante company's property. The strike was made at a depth of 200 feet and a trial shipment of 10 tons has already been sent out. This ore is of $30 grade. The pay streak is about three feet in width.

The Mountain Beauty G. M. Co. holds its annual meeting of stockholders on December 3, at 2 p. m. at the office of J. Maffit, Finn in this city. Notices have already been sent out to the shareholders, but whether anything of importance will come up at the meeting is not known. Mr. Finn and A. D. Carlton are heavy stockholders of the company.

The Kitty M. Leasing company has encountered a new vein in the third level of the property adjoining the Moon-Anchor on Gold hill. Up to the time that the 300-foot level was run, the company was producing good ore from the upper laterals, but failed to find the ore body in place at the 300-foot depth. A few shipments have been made from this level but they have not been entirely satisfactory as regards values. In the new vein, there is a 20-inch streak of ore that gives assays of nearly 4 ounces in gold to the ton. Ten tons of ore that should carry 3-ounce values have been sent out.

GOLDEN CYCLE HAS A GOOD VEIN

In the Harrison Lode at the Ninth Level---The Screenings Are Running Between $50 and $60 Per Ton.

Drifting has been started in the Harrison vein at the ninth level of the Golden Cycle mine, and the management finds that the ore is quite as good as it was in the upper levels, averaging between $50 and $60 in gold to the ton for the screenings from three and one-half feet. The Harrison vein is a very narrow seam, carrying extremely high values. Assays taken from the seam run as high as 50 ounces in gold to the ton; but it is impossible to run the drift and break less than three and one-half feet, and the screenings from this is what the vein finally amounts to. The screenings are being saved in a separate bin, and until the lot is shipped it will not be known definitely what the ore runs.

The Legal Tender vein has not yet been opened in the ninth level, but work is now in progress to get it. This vein is just the opposite of the Harrison, being very wide, and of a low grade, the ore averaging something like $20 in gold to the ton. There is a great deal of dead work in progress in the mine now, and the ore which is being mined out is very carefully sorted. The new ore house enables this care to be taken whereas with the old one it was very difficult, and seldom resorted to.

The property is expected to average 100 tons a day for this month, although the development work is still to be continued in the bottom levels. There are two important veins, the Legal Tender and the Revenue Cutter to be opened on the ninth level, and considerable development still to be accomplished in the seventh level. There will be almost 200 feet of stoping ground after the bottom level is opened up, as the eighth level has not been run.

REPUBLIC MAY LEASE J. I. C.

A Good Application Is Being Considered--The Company Has Placed the Block of Treasury Stock and Is in Good Shape.

The directors of the Republic Gold Mining company are considering an application for a lease on their J. I. C. claim, and it is probable that a lease will soon be granted on that property to a strong party, willing to accomplish a good amount of work. The claim is well located on Battle mountain, and has good prospects for holding some of the rich ore which has made so many mines out of Battle mountain properties. It is well located, and its prospective value is increased by the fact that very little exploration has been done on the claim.

The company has received several applications in the past few weeks for leases on the Beacon hill ground, but none will be granted until a good amount of work is promised by the lessee. The Beacon hill property produced some ore a few months ago, and had a very favorable showing; but it was evident that greater depth was needed in order to get a large body of shipping ore, and the lessees felt themselves unable to undertake the development. As soon as a lessee comes along who is willing to sink a deep shaft on the claim, he will be given the lease.

The block of treasury stock which the company offered a few weeks ago, pro rata to the stockholders, has now been all subscribed, and the company is on a very sound financial footing, with ample cash, and a large block of stock in the treasury.

MARY ANN LEASED TO MORATH

He Will Start Active Work at Once, and Pay Good Royalties on All Ore Shipped---Promising Prospects for Ore

The directors of the Mary Ann Gold Mining company granted a lease yesterday on the claim of the same name to E. G. Morath for a term of two years. The lease stipulates for 20 per cent. royalty on all ore running under five ounces and 30 per cent. on all ore running over five ounces in gold to the ton; and also requires the performance of a shift of work each month.

The Mary Ann claim consists of nine and one-half acres on Raven hill, adjoining the Moose, and has, at times, shown excellent indications of good ore bodies. Several leases have been in operation at different times during the past year or two, but none of the operations have been very active. Mr. Morath is prepared to do thorough work, and will probably sink to a depth of 500 feet as soon as he can. He has much faith in the prospects of the claim, and will make a good search for the ore which should be within it.

There is a considerable amount of activity in this section of the camp just now, and it seems as if the work will eventually make another big mine on this side of Raven hill. The Joe Dandy is showing up very well, but, aside from that, there are no producers of any importance. The Bonnie Nell Consolidated company is preparing to do work on a large scale; while Mr. Maynard, leasing on the Moose and the Alsa R. of the Golden Dale company, is performing excellent work in his search for the lost Moose shoot.

MINING NOTES AROUND TOWN

An adjournment of the Colorado Springs Mining Stock exchange was taken yesterday morning in accordance with a desire of the members who voted to do so at the morning session, and the afternoon call was therefore omitted. The action is taken out of respect to the memory of Mr. Morley, whose funeral occurred yesterday afternoon and who, in his life time, was one of the most valuable of the associate members of the exchange, as well as a universally esteemed citizen.

REPORT GIVES MABEL M. CREDIT FOR GOLD DOLLAR ORE

The weakness of Gold Dollar shares is explained by rumor in this way: The ore shoot recently opened in the Gold Dollar mine, and which shows very satisfactory values is said to be dipping into the Mabel M. mine, and by the time a depth of 600 feet is gained in the former, the latter will reap all the benefit from whatever mineralization the vein may carry on this part of the hill. The officers of the Gold Dollar company discredit the report, and little reliance is placed on it in mining circles. The ore in the Gold Dollar mine is now being taken out at a considerable distance from the Mabel M. line, and there is as yet no evidence that the shoot will be lost. The property is in a fairly prosperous condition, marketing a good amount of ore each month, and accomplishing good development work despite the heaviness of the stock.

HENRIETTA MINE NEAR SILVERTON PAID FOR

News comes by the way of Denver that the deferred payment amounting to $20,000 has been at last paid on the Henrietta property near Silverton. Now the Kendrick-Gelder Smelting company is the sole owner of the property. A 16-horse-power gasoline engine has arrived at the mine and is being placed in position.

The 100-ton Briquetting machine has been ordered by the Kendrick-Gelder smelter and the foundation for the same is now being laid, ready for the machinery upon its arrival.

The Hamlet group, owned by Robin Bros., will work a force of eight men all during the winter, doing development work. Several thousand tons of a good grade copper ore have already been opened up and this group will make regular shipments all during the coming season.

An idea of the amount of practical and successful mining that is being carried on at present may be gained when it is known that more than 1,000 tons of high grade ore and concentrates were shipped from Silverton to the Durango smelter last week.

The Minnie gulch people shipped two carloads of gold and silver ore to the Kendrick-Gelder smelter last week.

THE WOODS PEOPLE SHIP FROM BEAR CREEK

The Woods Investment company is making regular daily shipments of high grade ore from their Bear creek property to their smelter. Two large mule trains and two burro trains are making the trip each day. The company is now making preparations to work all winter and to keep up regular shipments. A new road will be made and the ore will be hauled by sleds to the smelter.

MR. MARION EDWARDS NOW VISITING CRIPPLE CREEK

Marion Edwards, a metallurgical engineer in the employ of one of the greatest mining companies in the world, operating mainly in Australia, is in Cripple Creek, making an inspection of the district in the interest of his company. His special mission to this country is to make a study of the methods of treating ores employed here and before returning home he will visit the principal mining districts of Utah, Nevada and California. He will remain in this district about four days.

LESSEES ON FINDLEY ARE INSTALLING HOIST.

Lessees McEnnis and associates who are working a lease on the northwest block on the Findley property on Bull hill, are doing some very good work. They are now employed in the installation of a thirty-horse electric hoist over the new shaft which is now down to the depth of about 90 feet. At the bottom of the shaft already the vein is in sight and it is fairly well defined at that shallow depth. Assays have been obtained from along the vein that run about $12 in gold to the ton. Some of the assays have gone as high as $40 per ton.

It is the belief of the lessees who are here at work that they have the extension of the Hull City vein and if that is a fact they expect to be very soon in a body of good paying ore.

BOSTWICK SHAFT DOWN TO A DEPTH OF 260 FEET.

Good progress has been made on the shaft on the property of the Bostwick. The shaft is now down to the depth of 260 feet and it is being sunk rapidly. Although some good indications are already at hand the shaft will be sunk to the depth of 500 feet before lateral work is commenced.

Owing to the fact that the property is surrounded on three sides by the Elkton ground there has been an increased demand for the treasury stock which is being sold for development purposes at five cents per share. Should the deal which is pending for Elkton go through it is thought that the Bostwick property will be wanted on account of its desirable location. There is only a short distance between the Elkton shaft and the Bostwick shaft and should arrangements be made for the exploration of the Bostwick property through the lower levels of the Elkton a depth would thus be gained from the surface of about 50 feet more than the corresponding Elkton laterals.

GOOD STRIKE MADE ON KITTIE M. CLAIM.

Ore has been opened in the workings on the Kittie M. claim. The operations on this property are in charge of the Kittie M. Leasing company. This claim is located near the Anaconda, and is, therefore, in a very good territory. The operations by the leasing company have opened up the extension of the vein that was never known before to exist in that territory. The pay ore that has been discovered is nearly two feet in width. A shipment which will run $60 in gold to the ton has been sent out. The leasing people are much pleased with their outlook and now expect to make a good thing out the workings.

MONTHLY MEETING OF PORTLAND DIRECTORS HELD.

On Tuesday afternoon the regular monthly meeting of the Portland Gold Mining company was held in this city in the offices of the company. The last monthly meeting of the directors was held in Council Bluffs, Iowa, for at that time a majority of the directors were there at that time attending the Burris-Doyle trial. The business transacted there on Tuesday was nothing more than routine work, such as the paying of bills and the making of monthly allowances. This steady old producer shipped 3,999 tons of ore during the month of October, and all of it was of unusually good grade. The mine is in splendid condition and the development work is being kept far ahead of the production. When the new mill which is now in process of erection is finished the production will be greatly increased.

Jumped on a Ten Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well-known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by all druggists.

KNOWS NO DISTINCTION

Rich and Poor Alike Suffer from Catarrh in this Climate.

All observant physicians have noticed the enormous increase in catarrhal diseases in recent years and the most intelligent and enlightened have cheerfully given their approval to the new internal remedy, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, as the most successful and by far the safest remedy for catarrh yet produced.

One well-known catarrh specialist, as soon as he had made a thorough test of this preparation, discarded inhalers, washes and sprays and now depends entirely upon Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in treating catarrh, whether in the head, throat or stomach.

Dr. Bladell says, "In patients who had lost the sense of smell entirely and even where the hearing has begun to be affected from catarrh, I have had fine results after only a few weeks' use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. I can only explain their action on the theory that the cleansing and antiseptic properties of the tablets destroy the catarrhal germs wherever found, because I have found the tablets equally valuable in catarrh of the throat and stomach as in nasal catarrh."

Dr. Estabrook says: "Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are especially useful in nasal catarrh and catarrh of the throat, clearing the membranes of mucus and speedily overcoming the hawking, coughing and expectorating."

All sufferers from catarrh will find Stuart's Catarrh Tablets will give immediate relief, and being in tablet form and pleasant to the taste, are convenient and always ready for use, as they can be carried in the pocket and used at any time, as they contain no poisonous drugs, but only the cleansing, antiseptic properties of Eucalyptus bark, Guaiacol, blood root and Hydrastin.

All druggists sell the tablets at 50 cents for complete treatment.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Nov. 6.—For a "short call" day there was a good amount of trading on the local mining stock exchange, but no especial strength was manifested outside of a few stocks in the mines list, and there was some weakness there. An adjournment was taken in the afternoon. Anaconda was lower at 27½, but Consolidated was back at 9 again, due to good reports from the strike on the company's Colorado Boss claim—a strike which is said to be holding out well; Doctor was firm at 53½, while Elkton showed some signs of strength by selling up to $1.64 under a half-spirited demand. There seems to be little faith in the proposed deal for the sale of the stock at $2.75. El Paso was very strong at 80¾, but Gold Dollar was heavy at 17½. Gould was strong at 19¾, and Isabella was active, but declined fractionally to 46. Mollie Gibson sold a cent higher at 16, and Orphan was firm at 20. Vindicator was still in demand and advanced to $1.28. The trading in the other lists was without any incident worthy of comment. Nellie V. manifested some signs of strength, but only 1,000 shares sold, and that was at 4½. There seems to be a very small amount of this stock on the market. Sedan sold at 6¾, manifesting some firmness due to the active operations resumed by Lesser Rellum.

EASTERN MARKETS

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 6.—Today's stock market was dominated by the authoritative admissions from various quarters that the basis had been agreed upon for the settlement of the Northern Pacific controversy, although the reports of an early official announcement were deprecated, as it was said details remain yet to be arranged. The arrival from Europe of W. K. Vanderbilt, who was named by Mr. Morgan as the final arbitrator of any difference upon which the conciliation board of directors might not be able to come to an agreement, helped to incite the large speculative buying, which was notable among all the transcontinental railways. The dealings in Union Pacific and St. Paul were on a scale to recall the days of the stock market boom in the spring of this year and the resulting rise in St. Paul reached 4½ and in Union Pacific 4½. The Union Pacific convertible bonds were absorbed at the same time on an enormous scale. In Southern Pacific the rise reached 1¾. Great Northern preferred 1½, Atchison 2¾ and in Northwestern 3½. Northern Pacific preferred fluctuated narrowly, thus suggesting that its present price is near to its valuation under the plan. The southwesterns and some of the southern stocks affected another center of activity and strength, based on the series of extraordinarily favorable returns of gross earnings for the fourth week in October. The Southern Railway stocks were also aided by the vote of Cincinnati in favor of extending the lease of the Cincinnati Southern. In these groups there were gains in Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis of 3½, St. Louis and San Francisco 3¼, Southern Railway preferred 2½, Missouri Pacific 2¾, St. Louis Southwestern preferred 2 and the Denver & Rio Grande stocks, Texas & Pacific, Louisville & Nashville and Southern Railway from 1¼ to 1½. The increase in railway earnings for the fourth week in October over those for the corresponding period of last year for Missouri Pacific reached 22 per cent., St. Louis and San Francisco 25 per cent, Louisville & Nashville 14 per cent, and Missouri, Kansas & Texas 32 per cent. There were other roads with almost equally striking gains, but they did not share in the advance. In fact, outside the stocks mentioned and a few rather obscure stocks the movement of the market was sluggish and irregular with no striking show of general strength until just at the last. A number of specialties were notably weak early in the day, including Sugar, Amalgamated Copper, People's Gas, American Ice and Metropolitan Street Railway, but except in Sugar and Amalgamated Copper there were strong recoveries. In Pittsburg, C. C. C. & St. Louis preferred, Wells Fargo, Pacific Coast, St. Lawrence & Adirondack, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg and Rutland preferred there were gains of 2 to 6 points. The additional gold engagements for export had but a momentary effect on the market and the monetary situation fell into the background completely as a market factor.

The large dealings in bonds centered in the Union Pacific and other convertible bond issues and speculative bonds. Total sales, par value, $6,370,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

The Metal Market.

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 6.—Features of importance were lacking in the market for metals today. Tin was quiet and fluctuated at $24.60@25.00 locally as well as abroad, where October closed at £113 18s 6d and futures at £106, 13s 6d. Copper was also quiet at home and abroad, closing here at $16.85@17.00 for lake and 16¾@16⅞ for casting and electrolytic. At London spot copper closed at £65 12s 6d and futures at £64 17s 6d. Lead was easy and 1s 3d lower at London, closing with spot quoted at £11 8s 6d. Here it was dull at $4.37½. Spelter was quiet here at $4.37½ and 2s in London. Domestic iron markets were without change and very quiet.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Nov. 6. Liquidation for profits on the part of long holders of wheat and corn weakened the grain markets today. December wheat closing ⅞@1c lower, December corn ¼@⅜c depressed and December oats ⅛c down. Provisions closed unchanged to 2½@5c lower.

Wheat opened strong and higher, buoyed by a strong cable list. There was a good commission house demand early and December opened ⅞@1c advanced at 72⅞@72½c. Prices even went to 72¾c for a few moments, but at that figure the rush of commission house orders was overcome by a general disposition to take profits. The corn market was acting in a similar manner and when longs in both pits began to sell and there was no important bull news to support the market prices began to slide downward, and at one time touched 71¾c. There seemed to be a belief current that the slump was only temporary and shorts covering brought a reaction at the close. December closing weak, ⅜@½c depressed, at 71⅞@72c. Local receipts were 135 cars; Minneapolis and Duluth reported 830 cars, making a total for the three points of 965, against the same number last week and 1,371 a year ago. Primary receipts were only 932,000 bushels compared with 1,445,000 bushels last year. Seaboard clearances in wheat and flour equaled 397,000 bushels.

Corn was very strong at the opening, both Liverpool cash and future cables being higher. The spot demand here was firm and river points were still seeking to fill their buying orders in this market. This brought an opening advance for December of ¼@⅜c at 59⅝@59¾c and the rise continued up to 60¼c. At this figure dealers in the provision pit flocked to corn to take profits and sold great quantities. The pit, however, was in a buying mood and took all offered. Later, on the wheat weakness, this corn was put on the market and a sharp break followed. December closing weak, ¾@⅞c lower, at 59¼@59½c. Receipts were only 74 cars.

Oats were fairly active and opened higher in sympathy with other grains, and on the strong cash situation. There was considerable liquidation in this pit, but in the face of it prices held well, particularly for the May delivery, in which there was the greater trade. December opened ⅛c up, fluctuated narrowly and closed ⅛c down at 27½c. Receipts were 148 cars.

Provisions were heavy and dull. Prices were a little better at the opening on a small demand for the short account. Hogs were a shade lower, and on liberal offerings prices reacted and closed steady. January pork closed unchanged at $14.62½. January—lard, 2½@5c up at $8.82½, and January ribs unchanged at $7.67½.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 100 cars; corn, 75 cars; oats, 12 cars; hogs, 29,000 head.

The London Market.

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 6. Commercial Advertiser's London financial cablegram.

American stocks opened buoyant and on the outburst of strength in this department the market hardened. Consols strengthened, but foreign issues were heavy on the French seizure of the Mitylene customs ports.

Rio Tintos spurted ⅝@46½, with American issues which opened strong on an unofficial announcement of a settlement of the Northern Pacific situation. The defeat of Tammany, too, had a good effect as London regards it as having an important bearing on American credits. The market on the whole was more active than for weeks past. Good authorities say that it is the beginning of a second boom. Union Pacific led in the advance, but New York took the profits, causing a relapse. The list picked up on the curb after business, Atchison being a strong favorite, with big calls to the end of January at 3¾ per cent. Southern Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande and Erie were all in demand. Gold to the amount of £5,000 has gone to South America. There is continued buying of gold at 76s 3½d.

THE OLD WELL

A Story of Moss, Microbes and Medicine.

It is the office of the poet to idealize. He paints pretty and pathetic word pictures which touch the heart and dim the eyes. But he does this regardless of physiology or pathology. When he sings a song of the old well on the farm and of the moss grown bucket in which the water was drawn, he hasn't a thought of the bacteria which find a fertile breeding ground in many an old well. He pictures the hot, thirsty day, and the bucket headed with trickling drops which shine like pearls against the moss. But he doesn't paint the picture of the man, whose tongue is parched with fever, who tumbles and tosses in his hot room and narrow bed while the bacilli of the bucket and the well are striving for the life that wouldn't be a poetic theme, and he has nothing to do with a theme that is not poetic.

As a matter of fact the old well and its familiar bucket have been the means of disease whole neighborhoods. The microbe is everywhere, and the easiest vehicle for its introduction into the body is perhaps the water we drink. We can't keep the microbe out. We can prevent its harmfulness.

THE DANGER OF DISEASE

does not lie in the strength of the microbe, but in the weakness of the body. When the blood is impure the microbe has a vantage ground from which to operate. When the blood is pure disease fails to find a breeding ground and the microbe strikes in vain against the man. Nobody can be healthy when the blood is impure. Taint the blood and every organ fed and nourished by blood must share the taint. Keep the blood pure and plentiful and the body is made strong to resist the assaults of disease.

"I honestly believe that I would have been in my grave today had it not been for your medicine, and the mercy of the good Lord," writes Mrs. James R. Moss, of New London, Stanly Co., N. C. "In the fall of 1892 I took a hard cold, which seemed to settle in my head, terminating in catarrh of the head. I bothered me all the time, but I did not think it was serious until the spring of 1893 when my health became so much impaired. My blood was all out of order, and I had to go to the doctor. He gave me medicine which helped me for a short time. In the winter of 1895 I got worse than I had ever been. My tonsils were enlarged and my neck swollen all out of shape; my throat was sore and I could not cure it. My husband went for the doctor, but he gave me no encouragement. He helped me a little, but it did not last long, and so he attended me for twelve months, when I heard of a lady that was taking your medicine and was getting well. So I secured some of the medicine and began taking it. In one week I was able to do my cooking. When I began taking the medicine I could sit up only a few minutes at a time, and I could rest or sleep only a little while at a time. My throat was sore, at times I could not even swallow sweet milk, and my tonsils were full of little eating sores. My left side was swollen out of shape and so sore I could not bear my clothes fastened, as I could hardly get my breath. My victuals would sour on my stomach before I could leave the table. My folks and friends had about given me up. The doctor said I would not get well. My father said I would not live a month, but three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, three bottles of his Pellets, three bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy did the work and made me a well woman."

THE BEST THING

for impure blood is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It neutralizes the poison of the poisons which corrupt the blood and disease the body. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, thus increasing the supply of pure blood, rich in the red corpuscles of health. By these the body is built up and its vitality restored. "Golden Medical Discovery" is singularly effective in the cure of scrofulous diseases, enlarged glands, swellings, pimples, eczema and eruptive diseases in general. The most obstinate and dangerous forms of blood disease have yielded to the curative power of this great remedy.

"I feel it is my duty to write to you of the wonderful curative powers of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Geo. S. Henderson, Esq., of Denaud, Lee Co., Fla. "I had a bad sore on my right ear, and my blood was badly out of order. I tried local doctors, but with no good results. Finally I wrote you the particulars in my case and you advised your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which I began to take. From the first bottle I began to feel better, and when I had taken eight bottles the sore was healed up. I wish you success."

"For about one year and a half my face was very badly broken out," writes Miss Carrie Adams, of 116 West Main Street, Battlecreek, Mich. "I spent a great deal of money with doctors and for different kinds of medicine, but received no benefit. At last I read one of your advertisements in a paper, and obtained a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken one bottle of this medicine I noticed a change, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured. I can well recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one similarly afflicted."

DON'T BE IMPOSED ON.

Sometimes a dealer for the sake of the little more profit paid on the sale of inferior preparations will try and sell a substitute as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery." The claim is false on its face. There is no similar medicine for the blood and stomach which can show such a record of cures as the "Discovery." Don't be imposed upon by substitutes without a record.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

"A PERFECT GUIDE

to health and happiness" is one title given to Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser.

"C. L. Shaw, of Couley, Winn Par., La., writes: "No family should be without it, and anyone who wishes a perfect guide to health and happiness should have Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser."

$1,000 DEATH INDEMNITY

For loss of life occurring within ten days from date of the event causing the fatal injury, the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000), provided such injury shall have been sustained by any of the following modes, namely:

Travel and Elevator

By collision or other accident causing material damage to a passenger elevator, a surface or elevated railroad or street car, steamboat, or other public conveyance provided by a common carrier for passenger service only, within which the Assured may be riding at the time of such accident in a place regularly provided for the transportation of passengers; or,

Burning Buildings

By the burning of a dwelling, hotel, theater, store or barn in which the Assured may be burned by fire or suffocated by smoke, but this shall not apply to or cover the Assured in the performance of duty as a paid or volunteer fireman; or

By Sunstroke or by Freezing or Anaesthetics

As the result of any anesthetic when administered by a duly qualified regular physician for the purpose of performing a surgical operation except that if the Assured be a female, this clause shall not apply to any operation during confinement or childbirth; or

Boiler Explosions

By the explosion of a stationary, locomotive, marine or portable boiler, when such explosion causes the destruction of such boiler; or

Runaways

By the running away of the horse or horses attached to any vehicle driven by the Assured at the time of such runaway; or

Burglary

By violence at the hands of any burglar when robbing or attempting to rob, by forcible entry, the dwelling of the Assured.

$5.00 WEEKLY BENEFITS

The sum of Five Dollars ($5.00) per week for a period not to exceed five consecutive weeks, if the Assured shall be immediately, continuously and wholly disabled and prevented from performing each and every duty pertaining to any and every business or employment, by external injuries resulting from the following causes, namely:

Travel and Elevator

By a collision or other accident causing material damage to a passenger elevator, a surface or elevated railroad or street car, steamboat, or other public conveyance provided by a common carrier for passenger service only, within which the assured may be riding at the time of such accident in a place regularly provided for the transportation of passengers; or

Bicycles

By the accidental collision of a bicycle, ridden by the Assured with any vehicle other than a bicycle; or

Runover

If the Assured shall be accidentally run over by a cable, electric or steam railroad or street car, or locomotive, providing he is not boarding or alighting from same while it is in motion, nor attempting to do so.

How to Get a $1,000 Insurance Policy Free

You take the Gazette now and pay sixty cents a month for it. In a year you pay $7.20 for The Gazette or some other paper. To get this policy you have simply to pay your subscription to the Gazette in advance instead of month by month, and your Gazette costs twenty cents less when paying yearly than when paying monthly. The Gazette pays the premium on your insurance. You pay for The Gazette for six months or one year and receive from The Maryland Casualty Company a $1,000 policy with a receipt for the year's premiums, that's all, except that you must be over 16 and under 65.

APPLICATION BLANK, FILL OUT AND SIGN.

Subscribers must be over 16 and under 65 years of age to avail themselves of this offer. Fill out this blank, write name and address plainly, and the policy will be delivered within a few days. Applicants must remit $3.75 for six months subscription and $7.00 for one year's subscription with this application, for which we will deliver the Daily and Sunday Gazette from the date of signing the application.

This policy does not insure any person who is either partially or wholly blind, deaf, crippled, paralyzed, insane, or subject to epilepsy, fits, sleep walking or vertigo.

This policy does not cover injuries, whether fatal or non-fatal, sustained by any railroad employe (other than executive officers and office force) while on duty; nor injuries, whether fatal or non-fatal, caused or contributed to by disease, voluntary exposure to unnecessary danger, or violation of law on the part of the Assured; nor injuries, whether fatal or non-fatal, sustained by professional bicycle riders, or by any bicycle rider while engaged in racing; or by any bicycle rider while engaged in police patrol or messenger service; nor injuries received by the Assured while intoxicated or under the influence of any drug, except as provided under the head of Anaesthetics; nor disappearance.

Any Subscriber to the Gazette, New or Old may take advantage of this proposition. Just pay $7.00 for the Gazette a year in advance or $3.75 for six months in advance, and you get both the paper and the Insurance Policy. If you don't already take the Gazette regularly begin it now. It's cheaper to take it by carrier than to buy it on the street, and you're sure of having it every day. There is no better newspaper in all of Colorado than the Gazette. No other Colorado paper is so widely quoted as the Gazette. No Colorado paper gives as much news as the Gazette. You may not agree with the Gazette politically, but you'll like and respect the fairness and strength of its policy. You'll appreciate the reliability of its news, and the absolute impartiality with which it is handled. You'll learn more of the resources of Colorado, and the opportunities of Colorado Springs through the Gazette than through any other Colorado paper.

THE GAZETTE STANDS FOR

The substantial promotion of Colorado's interests; the growth and upbuilding of Colorado Springs; honesty, economy and equality in our governmental institutions; reliability, fair play and purity in its news. The Gazette is more widely read than any other Colorado Springs paper. It is adding readers and admirers every day. Having for its aim the highest possible standard of intellectual, moral and news worth it day by day grows constantly better and greater. It costs the same as inferior newspapers and gives you

SPILLANE-KEARNS REALTY CO.—We must be all right, for the houses we are building seem to please everyone's taste that visits them.

The idea of an upstairs parlor, the "al fresco" balcony on the second floor, the big stone fireplaces, the Chinese, bizarre touch in the design, the buffet kitchen, the ivory bath rooms—all these new ideas are taking and we have more clever things up our sleeves. Come out and see what we have. Wood ave. and Washington st.

And we have lots in all parts of the town on which we will build you houses to suit from your own plans, and we will make you plans to suit. We don't ask one cent until we finish the house; then we will arrange for mortgage or cash. Our prices will be just as low as it is possible to make them, and have a 10 per cent. business profit. We have 5, 6-7, 8 and 9-room houses now all finished in the north and west ends. Call at Wood ave. and Washington st. and see our Mr. Spillane, or send postal, box 1074, and arrange appointment and we will send carriage.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Washington, Nov. 6. Forecast for Colorado: Fair Thursday; colder in eastern portion; Friday fair; variable winds.

Trunks repaired. Wise, 14 Pike's Peak.

Miss McDowell lectures on fiction this afternoon, 3 o'clock, at the First Presbyterian church.

Fireproof rooms for storage. Furniture packed. Padded moving vans. W. G. Lowe, 112 Pike's Peak.

MARRIAGE LICENSE. A marriage license was issued yesterday by the county clerk to Richard Lee Bernard and Mary F. Perry, both of Colorado City.

W. C. T. U.—The Frances Willard W. C. T. U. will hold its regular business meeting today at 209 South Weber street. All members are requested to be present.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR—Stated conclave of Pike's Peak commandery No. 6, K. T., this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Visiting Sir Knights are courteously invited.

I. O. O. F.—A regular meeting of Pike's Peak lodge No. 58, I. O. O. F., will be held this evening. All members of importance comes before the meeting.

RECEPTION—The Christian Endeavor society of the First Baptist church will give a reception in honor of the C. W. C. A. tonight at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Woods, No. 1330 Wood avenue.

ACCIDENT. While walking along South Tejon street yesterday morning, Mrs. L. M. Stuart was hit on the head by a piece of wood that had been blown from the roof of a building. The board cut a painful gash but the injury was not serious.

WARRANTY DEEDS. Among the warranty deeds recorded yesterday were the following: W. B. McIlwain to Caroline Glenn, $3,000, lots 25 and 26, block 170, Love & Quimby's addition; Mary Husing to Lewis A. Keyes, $1,750, part of lot 6, block 24.

PEAK SISTERS. A pleasing entertainment called "The Peak Sisters" will be given at the Hillside Congregational church tomorrow night. It is to be given by the Ladies' Aid society, and the proceeds are for the church fund. Instrumental music is a part of the evening's program, which begins at 8.

Y. M. C. U. The Young Men's Christian union of Colorado Springs will be organized at St. John's Baptist church next Sunday afternoon. It is to be a union of the young colored men of this vicinity. Rev. W. E. Gludden and W. H. Duncan are organizing the union. It will be similar to the Y. M. C. U. of other cities.

CONGREGATIONAL RECEPTION. Dr. and Mrs. James B. Gregg will receive and entertain the young men of the Congregational church tonight at their residence, No. 9 East Dale street. Dr. Slocum, Professor Parsons, W. H. Day, F. S. Tucker and others will speak and the College Y. M. C. A. quartet will sing.

MYSTERIOUS PROWLER—East side residents, especially women, are alarmed by the mysterious actions of a stranger who has been prowling around at night in the residence section near the Santa Fe tracks. Mrs. Hyde of No. 715 East Platte avenue was frightened by the man Sunday night. Mrs. Hyde saw him in the yard back of her home.

SEWING MEETING. The Home Missions department of the First Congregational church will have a sewing meeting at the church parlors Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A box is being prepared for Oklahoma, and warm second-hand clothing for men, women and children is desired. Articles may be sent to the church on Friday afternoon. A large attendance is desired.

WANTS DAMAGES. Mrs. Waitt of No. 222 East Cache la Poudre street, yesterday presented to the county commissioners a petition demanding $50 damages. Mrs. Waitt alleges that she was thrown from a buggy on the county road near Bates' ranch and was injured, and that the accident was due to the bad condition of the road. The horse stepped in a hole and stumbled, and as a result Mrs. Waitt was thrown out of the vehicle.

SOCIAL SESSION. The Elks will hold a big social session on the night of November 14. C. W. Deacon is in charge of the affair which will be one of the most sumptuous of the year. The State League of Municipalities, which will be in session at the time, will be the guests of honor. Later in the year the Elks will give a ladies social session at one of the large hotels, probably the Antlers. R. L. Holland is in charge of this.

ENTERTAINED ENDEAVORERS. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schmitt of 1111 Colorado avenue entertained the monthly gathering of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Second Presbyterian church Tuesday night. The evening was spent in amusements of an original character. Well-known pictures in the magazines were made the subjects for a series of living pictures. Songs and recitations varied the program. Refreshments were served during the evening.

FIREMEN'S RECEPTION—The volunteer firemen of the city will be given a luncheon next Tuesday evening by the regular firemen. Chief Raty and the three captains are managing the affair. A good program of amusements has been arranged. The bill-boom will be given at the Central station. On election day, the regular firemen were delighted to receive a gift of a number of books from Miss Dereen. The library be a source of much pleasure to the boys, especially during the tedious winter nights.

CHURCH STORE. The ladies of the Cullarian church will conduct a "church store" at the church, corner of Dale and Tejon streets, this afternoon. It will open at 2:30 o'clock and there will be bargains in dry goods, fancy articles, kitchen wares, home made pastry, candy and ice cream. There will be an art table of especial interest. Beautiful silks from the far east will be offered at reduced prices and there will be a mystery table for the children.

AURON SOCIAL. The Teomeda will hold an Yuron social and Bun Sale tomorrow night.

CARNATION CLUB. The Carnation club will give a dance at the Alamo hotel this evening.

Schumann Grand Concert Co. will open the Lyceum course at Temple theater Saturday, Nov. 9. You will hear nothing better this winter in its line. Tickets 19 N. Tejon.

SPECIALS
FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Friday and Saturday's message to the tailor girl is a most interesting bit of news. It tells of a price reduction on handsome tailor Jackets and Raglans, Dressing Sacques, French Flannel Waists and Petticoats.

50 Jackets
For ladies' and children. They are made of every popular fabric, lined throughout with good substantial lining satin, and are cut after fashion's most exclusive styles of last spring and fall. Worth up to $11.00 but a trifle old. This week your choice for $1.50

100 Dressing Saques
Made from super-quality of eiderdown, in all colors. Well made and finished elaborately. Were $1.25 and $1.50. For this sale $1

45 Flannel Waists
They are of the styles latest favored by fashion. Constructed from French flannel with the greatest care. The $1.75 kind. Friday and Saturday $1.15

20 Raglan Cloaks
This long, full back, loose fitting garment is the most popular wrap now in demand. The lot we specify are tailored from covert cloths, fitted to the waist, full length, with the yoke effect back and front. Elegantly made and worth $16.50. Friday and Saturday $12

25 Silk Moreen Petticoats
Just as well made, and with as much style as the silk skirt. No reason why they shouldn't be, but very often the case in cheaper petticoats. A better looking skirt you cannot find and better wearing garment is not made. This lot is worth $3.50 and $4.50 each but are slightly soiled. Your choice from blue red and lavender, this week at $2.25

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY WE OFFER OUR ENTIRE LINE OF INGRAIN CARPETS MADE, LAID AND LINED AT 60c YARD.

Upholstery Department
This department, one of the most successful in the house, is presided over by one of the most competent men known to the art. His ability has been proven by his connection with a number of the biggest concerns in the largest cities of the world. London, Berlin and New York have witnessed the clever conception wrought by his deft fingers. He received his education in the old country and spent many years in travel, thus learning the various styles of the leading fashionable centers of the Old and New World.

To back up his skill we carry in stock the choicest upholstery fabrics, both imported and domestic. The new Art Nouveau has full representation. See them.

Hosiery and Underwear
True progress was never more evident than in the above departments. True progress along the line of making true economy possible for our patrons. Such economy does not consist simply of getting things at lowest possible prices. It is getting thoroughly satisfactory goods at prices as low as the market affords. To tell of our guarantee is an oft repeated story, but "a good story oft bears repeating," so we beg to impress upon your memory that every pair of hose or undergarment sold in this store is backed up by us.
